A BITTER ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

(Scripps News Association)
Washington, Jan 12—Senator Pitchfork Tilman from Alabama this morning attacked the President's action on the Borsville affair. He said Roosevelt's additions were equivalent to lynching. The address is considered the most violent ever delivered from the Senate. He charged the President, with having revived the race issue and is bringing about conditions more threatening than those preceding 'sixty-one. He traced it back to the social recognition of Booker T. Washington, the colored educator and philanthropist, and said, "That was a mess, but the Borsville mess is a bigger one. Is the President ready to set his act up to his own theory, and can his children marry into other races? Would he accept as his daughter-in-law, a Chinese, Indian or a negro? We know he would not, but fine words will butter no parsnips and coming from such high source it will do incalculable harm."

ANOTHER SPECIAL MESSAGE

Washington Jan 12.—President Roosevelt today sent another special message to congress on the Colorado river matter. It says that temporary work must be done by the Southern Pacific and later turned into permanent irrigation. What amount shall be paid by the road mentioned must be determined later, but the permanent work will cost two million.

Until the complications between the California Development Company and subsidiary cases are settled, the President says the government will not be justified in having dealings with the corporations. If the river is put back in its course and personally maintained in that original course, the progressive back cutting will in a few years extend to and finally destroy the Laguna dam, thus wiping out millions of dollars worth of property. The great Yuma bridge will go out and seven hundred thousand acres of feed land will be converted into a desert if the money is not appropriated at once. The message advocates the entire Colorado development property being taken over as a part of the reclamation system. It will be necessary to obtain concessions from Mexico as well as to purchase the irrigation concerns' holdings. If congress does not make adequate provisions to take up this work it will be inferred that it acquiesces in abandonment of the work at Laguna and all future attempts to utilize all valuable public domains in this part of the country.
