HAVE YOU MET THE PLUMBER?

Plumbers are the busiest people in La Grande today. Early this morning they were routed out to heal leaks in bursted water pipes, and many kitchen floors were flooded before repairs could be made. While the atmosphere last night was no colder than the night previous, there was nevertheless more pipes bursted than the night before. This is accounted for, no doubt, by the fact that the homes had withstood the encroachments of Jack Frost for two days until the latter finally won out and the drop in temperature last night only tended to aid the thoro freezing of water pipes.

COLDER IN PENDLETON

Reports from Pendleton are encouraging to La Grander for they affirm that the mercury has taken a slump to the extent of five below zero.

The mercury last night soared unpleasantly close to zero, but the government thermometer registers two degrees above the maximum drop. The cold winds last night helped to make the weather unpleasant, and the ears of those who were out late in the evening, were undeniably frosty.

TO PRESERVE FISH

(Scripps News Association)
Albany, Jan 16—Commissioner Whipple of the State Forest Fish and Game Preservation Association in a report issued today states that more than 250,000-000 fish were distributed in the states from the eight-state hatcheries during the past year and during the year the Department collected fines and penalties aggregating $11,856.

ELECTRIC POWER PLANT BURNED

(Scripps News Association)
Reno, Nev. Jan. 16—All industries at Reno depending on the electrical power is closed down today as result of the fire in the Reno substation of the Nevada Power and Light Company this morning.

"NERVES" AN OSTEOPATHIC SPECIALTY

That the trouble known as "nerves" receives entirely too little attention from its victims is beyond question. It is not only a warning sign that there is something radically wrong, but, as the nerves are the governors of the whole being, it is the plainest sort of indication that the sufferer is not in the full completeness of his or her natural competency for the affairs of life. A condition of calm under ordinary conditions is absolutely necessary in order that there may be a reserve force of nervous energy for emergencies.

There are always definite reasons for the trouble; and, even when habits of life are largely responsible as aggravating causes, there is always some anatomically wrong condition that predisposes the sufferer to the trouble. If the body structure is in a state of perfect adjustment, if circulation to every part is unobstructed, if every nerve is uninterfered with in its work by pressure, and if nourishment and hygiene are attended to—"nerves" will speedily disappear. The Osteopath is the only specialist in detailed body adjustment—and he is the master of the craft.—Right of Way.
