AMUSEMENT

The masquerade last evening was distinctly successful. The number of masked characters was larger than contemplated. Variety and uniqueness stamped every costume. Mrs Damm with her whole Damm family was awarded the first prize for the best sustained character, and when the masks were removed Mrs Damm proved to be Mrs W K Jones. The scheme was novel and elicited much laughter. Ben Noys, sustaining the character of a "Dutchman," captured the five dollar hat.

For uniqueness of costume Misses Pennington and Ackles would certainly have won prizes had there been competition in this phase of costumes. These two ladies, had cleverly worked La Grande Evening Observers into tasty appearing dresses. The hall was filled with dancers.

CHALLENGE TO ALL

Charles Whitmore wishes to announce that he will meet any white man, Jap or negro on the mat in a catch-as-catch can contest. He has previously challenged the big Jap, but the latter refused with a condescending spirit refused to accept on the grounds that Whitmore was too light.

See "Arizona", a Military Drama, in four acts, by Local Talent, at Steward's Opera House, Monday, Jan. 28, under the personal direction of C. M. DeVere, late of the Lyric Stock Co., of Salt Lake City. Watch for cast of characters.

SOCIETY

The Damen-Krantz will enjoy a sleighing party this evening as guests of a number of young gentlemen. The hosts have arranged for an elaborate banquet in one of the restaurants.

Mr and Mrs F L Meyers and Margerette Newlin entertained the Kaffe Klatch last evening. Prizes were won by Mrs Anson and Robert Newlin. Mrs Turner Oliver being a warranted the consolation.

GUILDS HOLD SALE

The guild of St. Peter's church have held a sale of articles still in their possession, in Kilpatrick's warehouse.

AT THE BOHNENKAMP HOME

One of the most pleasant social parties of the mid-winter season was given by Mrs. W H Bohnenkamp at her home on Second Street yesterday afternoon in honor of Mesdames Harry and Horace Wilcox late of Anderson, Indiana, who have come to make their home in our city.

The invited guests were Mesdames E W Bartlett, Dr. Bacon, F Swaney, Richard Jones, H C Grady, J C Gilling, H C Cavana, Dr. Moore, Guy McCully, Jay Van Buren, Hobart Aikins, Adolph Newlin, T J Scroggins, Fred Kiddle, W Allinson, D M Watts, Horace Wilcox and Harry Wilcox.

The afternoon was spent in playing five hundred at which Mrs. Van Buren proved most skillful. A dainty lunch was then served after which all wished the newcomers a long and happy life in our "wild and wooly west."

The initial party of the Methodist Glee Club was a success. Last evening, after two hours spent in sleighing about the city, the club and its guests went to the Geo. L. Cleaver home, where Mrs. Cleaver was in waiting with a goodly quantity of "coon pie" coffee and doughnuts.

At a late hour the guests withdrew with the mutual agreement that the organization is a desirable feature of the church. The next meeting of the club will be February first, when Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Williams entertain. The club desires that all who are members of the Methodist congregation, join and become active members. The hostesses of each meeting, after inviting the club members is privileged to extend invitations to others of their friends. Those desiring to become members can do so by notifying the president Miss Mertie Aldrich or the secretary, Mrs James Ireland.
