WORLD RECORD

Lincoln-Poulsen Lumber Company closed down their mill on January 19 for extensive repairs. During the close-down a 1200-horse-power engine will be installed to drive the circulars and several other improvements will be made. This mill cut during 1906 148,000,000 as against 151,000,000 in 1905 exclusive of the lath. This is probably the largest cut by any six-foot circular mill in the world.

CLAY ELLSWORTH SLIGHTLY BETTER

For the past two days it looked dubious that C.W.P. Ellsworth would retain his arm, as blood poisoning had gained a strong hold of the member. Last night two physicians from this city agreed that conditions were improving so materially that the member will not have to be amputated. The past week has been a painful one for Clay, however, and the pains and sufferings have been very trying on the justice of the peace. Unless a relapse occurs, Mr. Ellsworth will be out again in a few days.
