

AMUSEMENT

THURSDAY EVENING

Closing of the Popular Course of 1906-7. Dr. Driver's great lecture. One great lecture delivered by an orator inspires one to be more and do more for self and the world. Do not fail to hear this man of who people are saying such good things. Tickets at Selder's.

Dr. Driver is one who would be singled out of a thousand for his commanding physique and all pervading unique personality. He demonstrated his right to be classed with the profound students and magnificent orators of the country. He ran the gamut of the emotions of his audience as deftly as a skillful pianist fingers the keys of a cherished piano.—Colorado Springs (Colo.) Gazette.

The Star Course lecture by Driver was one of the most entertaining and satisfactory ever given in Owosso. No other lecturer ever gave expression to more sound ideas, reasonable theories and historical facts, and at the same time worked in more bits of fun and humor than Dr. Driver did last night.—Owosso (Mich) Evening Argus.

The lecture proved to be one of the very best ever given by any lecturer in Waterloo. Never was an audience in the city better pleased with an evening's entertainment.—Waterloo (Iowa) Daily Reporter.

THE PARISH PRIEST

This beautiful pastoral drama in three acts will be produced at Steward's opera house on Monday night the 11 inst. by the best local talent of the city under the direction of C. M. De Vere.

This drama was written expressly for the celebrated actor Daniel Sully, who starred for 300 consecutive nights in New York City as Father Waland with unprecedented success. Wherever this play has been presented to the public it has been received with most enthusiastic applause. It contains many beautiful passages of pathos and emotion, appeals to the most tender feelings of the heart; is true to life, and is interspersed with many amusing and laughable incidents.

The part of the Parish Priest will be rendered by H. E. Coolidge; the comedy parts by E. L. Eckley, Mrs. Maud Simpson Scroggin and Adna B. Rogers; while the part of "A girl without a temper," by Mrs. Lillian Bates Richardson; "A visitor from the old sod," by Mrs. Maud Simpson Scroggin; and "Father Waland's niece," by Mrs. Ethel De Vere.

Much pains has been taken to present this play before the public of La Grande and they may rest assured every effort will be made to make it the success of the season.

NO DANCE

There will be no dance at the Commercial Club tomorrow night. The managers retraced its announcement of yesterday, this afternoon.

EVELYN TELLS HER STORY

Nesbit posed for Magazines and several artists. When she left for New York she carried a letter of introduction to Beckwith. She made about $17.00 per week. She went on; "White didn't like to have me pose for he said that artists were a lot of old foggies. So he sent me to school to prepare for the stage. While doing this was taken sick and suffered an operation. Thaw came to me then and said he would take mother and myself to Europe. This we did."

The afternoon was taken up with arguments about a series of letters to Evelyn and Mrs. Nesbit from Harry Thaw where he accused White as being a black-guard and having beguiled Evelyn while she was yet but thirteen and two thirds years old. The letter was read to the jury, after the court and Jerome had perused the article separately.

SOCIETY

NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB MEETING

The Neighborhood Club held its regular meeting Feb. 5th. A good attendance was present and the afternoon was profitably spent in the study of Shakespeare and Bacon under the delightful leadership of Mrs Geo Palmer.

After the study, the members were pleasantly entertained with selections from Shakespeare and Bacon read by Mrs Guy Byrkit.

Applications for membership are still being received at each meeting and it is urged that all members, both new and old, as far as possible, be present at the next meeting, Feb 19th as the study for the next year will be decided upon. The study courses to be considered, are Germany, Belgium, Denmark, France, Austria and America.

The lesson for Feb. 19 will begin with Milton and extend to Jonathan Swift. The ladies of the Neighborhood Club are planning an after show in the fall, full particulars of which will be given later.

CIRCUIT COURT

The Circuit court today was occupied with trial of the case of Bartha Eichenberger versus John Anthony. This is a case wherein Miss Eichenberger sues Mr. Anthony to recover money. The trial is still on as we go to press.

S. N. Prescott, who was arraigned yesterday, pleaded not guilty today. His trial will come some time during this term of court.

Robert Alexander, who was arraigned upon the charge of larceny from a dwelling, and also with larceny from a building, also pleaded not guilty to both charges.

E. J. Edwards also pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault with intent to kill.

The case of Frank Binehoff versus J. D. McKennon, which was on trial yesterday, was nonsuited. This was the case wherein Binehoff appealed the case from the justice court where he had been fined for trespassing upon property belonging to J. D. McKennon.

COUNTY COURT

Yesterday afternoon the members of the county court made a flying trip up the river to overlook the high water situation. They found that two of the bridges were gone and decided that they would replace them with steel ones also place them considerably higher above the water than the old ones.

Tomorrow the various implement dealers will meet with the court and submit plans and bids for furnishing the county with a rock crusher and a steam road roller. It is the intention of the court to do some road work this coming season.

J. B. Eaton, the expert who has been preparing a report of the condition of the various county offices submitted his report today and the same will be properly considered at this term.

James McRae of Summerville, who received the appointment as county stock inspector, filed his bond today and duly qualified. Mr. McRae takes the place of S. M. Goff of Elgin, whose term of office expired the first of this year.

VALUABLE SUGGESTION

Mr. Editor:
As spring time approaches our minds naturally begin to work in the direction of seed time and harvest for another year. While the farmers, work consist largely of preparing the soil for seeding, the fruit man's work is pruning, spraying et cetra.

It is estimated that farm products destroyed, each year in the U. S. by insects aggregate the vast sum of $700,000,000 or more than the entire expenditures of the National Government. To this vast sum must be added the value of crops destroyed by fungous diseases which would bring the total to at least a billion dollars. Thus one of the most serious problems that confront the American Agriculturist is that of controlling the insect and fungous enemies of his crop. The Romans used to require the inhabitants of infested districts to destroy certain quantities of grass hoppers.

In the middle ages the methods used for the destruction of insects was largely spiritual.

Priests sometimes marched around in fested fields praying. Only in the last quarter of a century have scientific methods of controlling insect and fungous enemies been devised.

With the appearance and rapid march of Colorado potato beetle across the country from 1860 to 1870 there came into use the poison Parisgreen which was destined to revolutionize spraying methods. In 1878 it was found that this poison spray effectively checked the codling

Wonderful Advancement

Has been made of late years in the methods employed

The fitting of glasses should be done by one, who is a specialist, as many a good eye has been blinded by the folly of the patient intrusting their eyes to an incompetent or

Ordinary Optician

Go to a specialist on eyes and nerve measurements, one who can figure to a second just how much energy the eyes are using more than they should use. Dr. Pons the eye and nerve specialist will be at the Sommer Hotel the rest of this week. Hours 9 a. m. till 12 m. and 6 p. m. till 7 p. m. Consultation Free. Dr. Pons will be in La Grande every few months from now on. Bring your broken lens to him, he duplicates any lens in one hour's notice, at a reduced price.

For the past 6 years on my periodical visits I have become well acquainted with Dr. F. E. Moore and I know he has observed the good work in fitting glasses I have done and will have no objections to my referring any one to him who is uncertain of my ability.

moth and this gave a new impetus to the warfare against insects—about 10 years from this time sprays for fungous diseases were very much used in America.

Great strides have been made in the science of spraying during the past 20 years and American farmers now have a very formidable array of materials and elaborate machinery for their application.

Paris Green, arsenate of lead and white arsenic are standard poison sprays for biting insects.

Sucking insects, like plant lice, San Jose Scale etc must be fought with a different spray from biting insects and fungi.

The most effective sprays for sucking insects are soaps, oils and the lime-sulphur wash. Bordeaux mixture has come to the almost universal fungicide in this country.

In our country the codling moth and apple anthracnose are our principal enemies in fact the only serious ones at present and it has been fully demonstrated that they can be practically controlled by due care and diligent attention at the proper time. And as the season advances we should look well to our interests and take care of our crops if we would have a beautiful harvest.

A MEDICAL CONFESSION

Dr. Frank Billings (Chicago) president American Medical Association says in Journal American Medical Association May 9, 1905.

"In the vast majority of infectious disease we are hopeless to apply a specific cure".

"Drugs with the exception of quinine in malaria and mercury in Syphilis are are valueless as cures."

"The prevention and cure of infectious disease is a problem that scientific medicine must solve."

The above words from so noted a physician give weight to the fact that so uncertain a science should not possess Legislative monopoly.

Osteopathy asked the Oregon Legislature for a square deal. Its claims are certainly stronger than those acknowledged by Dr. Billings.
