SEVENTH AND FAREWELL TOUR

Arthur C. Alston's Company in the Sweetest Story of the South Ever Told.

"At The Old Cross Roads"

POSITIVELY GUARANTEED PLAY AND PLAYERS. The story is pretty, sane and emotional, and as the curtain drops on the final vindication of "Parepa" you go home smiling and beaming with satisfaction.

SPECIAL NOTICE: Account of the capacity business everywhere played to by "At the Old Cross Road" on its farewell tour, patrons should secure their seats early in order to avoid disappointment. List absolutely suspended. I personally guarantee the excellence of this attraction.

STEWARD'S OPERA HOUSE, THURSDAY, JANUARY 2nd

Sure to Please. When Arthur C. Alston, who has given our theatergoers "Friends," "Tennessee's Pardner," "Pretty Peggy," "Freedom of Suzanne," and several other first-class attractions, announced the production of "At the Old Cross Roads" our public knew that it must be a meritorious play or Manager Alston would not be connected with it.

cordial going from the start, all over the cory, the tours which have been from at to coast being to a succession crowded and enthusiastic audience. The engagements at the Grand opera house, New York city, were almost successful ever known, ever that big playhouse, which is no for the enormous receipts. Peo were turned away at every performance, the police on several occasions even stopping the sale of standing room. Manager Alston has spared no expense in the way of proper stage environment, correct costuming and properties. The company contains 20 people of established reputation and who are partly responsible for the phenomenal success of the play.
