THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

"Devil's Auction" Company.

One of the most prominent features of Chas. H. Yale's "Everlasting Devil's Auction" and, by the way, a feature that is not now presented by any other spectacular organization, is the transformation scene.

In former years a spectacular performance was not considered complete without its final scene of transformation, and, in the case of the original "Black Crook," "The White Pawn," and later David Henderson's show-pieces, were spent in presenting these magnificent specimens of the scenic painter's art.

Of late years the promoters of spectacle outside of Mr. Yale, have discarded these effective finales to their performance, possibly to save what they consider an unnecessary expense.

In any event, the scene has been cut out in the majority of fairy productions, with the exception of the

"Devil's Auction." Manager Yale, however, has each year offered his patrons a beautiful series of stage pictures, and in this, the 26th edition, promises a radical change from anything hitherto attempted in this line.

The new transformation is entitled enjoys the unique distinction of never having received a single adverse criticism. The unanimous praise of the New York press burst upon it like a flood and its success with the public was said to be equally spontaneous and emphatic. In fact it has become the talk of the town. With no "boom-

"The Man of the Hour."

"The Man of the Hour," which

William A. Brady and Joseph Grismer will offer to the theatergoers at the Steward Tuesday, January 21, now playing at the Savoy theater,

New York city, marks a new era in the history of the stage. It follows none of the old methods or action. It ing" of any kind, it has become one of the four established Broadway successes, and bids fair to outlive even these rivals. It is said to appeal to every one, regardless of age, sex or condition. It has been called the "Dawn of Civic Conscience," "A Sermon on Public Honesty," yet it is said to be no "dry sermon." Its interest is human and sympathetic. Its humor creates peals and roars of laughter and is said to have a love story of touching tenderness. It is aptly termed "The play of the day."

to these matters of special interest are the range question, seal eradication, administration of the forest reserves, and the 28-hour law. Another question of vital interest, which affects woolgrowers in all sections of the country, is that of tariff revision. A proposition to hold wool auction sales in the United States, similar to those held in England, is also before the delegates and may be acted upon favorably. A number of commission men and wool buyers from the eastern and central cities are attending the meeting.

According to Secretary George S. Walker of Cheyenne, Wyo., the present membership of the National Woolgrowers' association is 11,000, a growth of 4500 during the past year. The speakers on the program include Secretary Wilson, Chief Forester Pinchot and Senators Warren and Carter.

Notice of Final Settlement.

NATIONAL WOOL GROWERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

Helena, Mont., Jan. 14.—With hundreds of sheepmen from the Atlantic to the Pacific in attendance, the 44th annual meeting of the National Woolgrowers' association convened here today. The convention will last three days. A sheep show was opened today in connection with the meeting, at which all the leading sheep breeders of the country have entered animals.

As the sheep industry centers in the west and northwest, a majority of the delegates are from this section, and
