MAINTAIN INFORMATION BUREAU IN LOS ANGELES

Portland, Feb. 24.—(Special correspondence.)—The Oregon National guard is very active in its efforts to obtain a suitable and permanent rifle range near this city. Besides being immediately available for the use of six companies, including those stationed at Vancouver, Wash., the range would attract any United States cruisers and other naval vessels to this port, since this practice is required of the navy as well. The matter has been taken up with the United States war department and strongest possible endorsement has gone forward from the Portland Commercial club and other organizations of Portland.

In celebrating the opening of the new electric interurban line between Portland and Salem on February 18, the latter city entertained numerous delegations from the various cities of the Willamette valley. Over a hundred business men went from Portland in two special cars. Great enthusiasm was aroused by the speeches of both visitors and Salem men, and all united in emphasizing the necessity for wide-awake, aggressive advertising to develop both city and country. Salem contemplates an immediate campaign as a result.

Washington's birthday had twice its usual interest and significance in Portland this year on account of this being also the city's first observance of "Rose planting day." Archbishop Christie participated in the exercises in connection with planting the thousand of roses which were borne to the parks by the school children. Vigorous two-year-old bushes were set out which will bloom generously by the first of June, for the Rose festival. A distinctive feature of the grand parade planned for the festival will be the entry of floats from different cities in the state—several have already designed floats illustrating some particular product of their section. This attractive representation will doubtless attract many visitors to these communities.

A branch of the work of the Portland Commercial club which many people know nothing about, is the maintenance of an Oregon information bureau in Los Angeles, which has been wonderfully successful in its efforts to so interest California tourists that they may return to their eastern homes by way of Oregon. Oregon literature is distributed from several of the most centrally located offices in Los Angeles, and it is eagerly taken. The colonist rates, and particularly the $20 fare from the great middle west to all stations in the "Beaver state" is emphasized in every publication given out. Eastern lectures are also employed to a limited extent, and Robert J. Weyh, Jr., of New York city, has just reported a most successful series with audiences frequently numbering in excess of 1000 adults. "They take in every word about Oregon," he writes, "and then fire questions at me."

LUMBER BY RAIL SOON

After months of operation, during which all lumber was piled to dry, the George Palmer mill company will be shipping lumber by rail before the last of March, it is announced.

In the yards, located several hundred yards from the mill, lumber piles have been reared, board by board, until there is a virtual village of lumber piles. Ever since the mill commenced operation, the product has been piled in the yards, but now the lumber has been cured to such an extent that shipments can begin soon. The yard foreman, Mr. Murray, has adhered closely to the predominating rule which governs all departments of the Palmer mill—strict adherence to details and accurateness—with the result that each pile is as true as though it was made to stand forever. But as soon as the shipments begin, the first piles to be erected will be torn down to fill foreign orders.
