We believe that the men are just as much interested in being well and properly dressed as the ladies and for that reason we have used the same care in selecting merchandise for OUR MEN' WEAR DEPARTMENT as for any other.

ANTHONY AND CLEOPATRA

"Of all Shakespeare's historical plays," says Coleridge, "Anthony and Cleopatra" is by far the most wonderful. He again says, assigning it a place even higher than that of being the most wonderful of the historical plays, the highest praise, or rather form of praise, of this play, which I can offer in my mind, is the doubt which the perusal always occasions in me whether the Anthony and Cleopatra is not, in all exhibitions of a giant power in its strength and vigor of maturity, a formidable rival of Macbeth, Lear, Hamlet and Othello. The epithet wonderful is unquestionably the right one to apply to this drama. It is too vast, too gorgeous, to be approached without some prostration of the understanding. It pours such a flood of noonday splendor upon our senses, that we cannot gaze upon it steadily. We have read it again and again; and the impression which it leaves again and again is that of wonder. A spectacular revival of this most wonderful historical play will be presented by Charles B. Hanford during the present season. As Marc Antony, he offers a worthy sequel to his performance of the same character in "Julius Caesar," which will be of great interest to the student and equally interesting and entertaining to the theatergoer who patronizes the theater for an evening's entertainment only. The Antony of this play must be recorded as another addition of his successes in the great characters of Shakespeare, Cleopatra, that rare Egyptian queen who pursued up the heart of Marc Antony at their first meeting upon the river Cydnus; "whom everything becomes to chide, to laugh, to weep," will be in the hands of that excellent actress, Miss Alice Wilson.

gorgeous setting of Egyptian and Roman scenery; a ballet of dancing girls and a chorus of youth and beauty, beautifully and characteristically costumed, pictures and pleasing electrical effect including the great scene, "The Battle and the Storm," are a few of the many features introduced to add to the interest and realism of the play.

On Monday, March 23, an opportunity will be afforded to see Mr. Hanford's presentation of "Anthony and Cleopatra" at Steward's opera house.

PADDOCK TO SPEAK OFTEN

Bishop R. L. Paddock yesterday appeared in public for the first time in his city, and before his first address was finished those who heard him were fully aware that the new Episcopal bishop of the eastern Oregon diocese is a man far above the average ecclesiast. He addressed the congregation at St. Peter's Episcopal church the morning and evening. His remarks were replete with personal experiences during his stay in New York. A short address of welcome and introduction by Upton H. Gibbs, the local rector, preceded the morning address.

During his present sojourn in La Grande, the bishop will be extremely busy. This afternoon at 3 o'clock he opened a series of services at the St. Peter's church, which will last until Thursday evening. The services will be held twice, daily, at 3 and 7:30 o'clock, until Thursday evening. They will give the entire church-going public an opportunity of hearing the able scholar and high church dignitary.

NEW ENGINES IN LA GRANDE

Simultaneously with a sudden flurry in freight and passenger business on the O. R. & N. out of this city, comes the first assignment of new freight engines which will be needed in mountain train service. Three new engines, direct from the Baldwin works at Philadelphia, reached La Grande last evening, and will be put in working order in the local shops. They are the simple standard size, with the round tank. Their numbers are 236, 237 and 238.

It is said that the order for the new engines was instigated by the inroads made into the O. R. & N.'s territory by the North Bank road, and a better compete with the new system, the Harriman lines are preparing themselves to cope on a larger scale with their competition. Other engines for La Grande and eastern Oregon points are on the way, or about to start.

While it is impossible to learn the exact cost of these new locomotives, it has been estimated that each one represents an outlay in the neighborhood of $19,000.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET

Chairman Geo. T. Cochran announces that the membership committee of the Commercial club will meet next Tuesday night to formulate a plan of procedure in laying before the citizens of La Grande, an opportunity of subscribing for the one share of stock and taking out a year's membership card, to keep the club on its feet.

There is a large list of representative business men in the committee, and they will make a canvass of the city this week that is thorough and complete. Not a business man will escape their visit. The chairman expresses urgent request for a full attendance at the meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

MANY WANT CARRIERSHIP

According to indications there will be a lively tussle for the two carrierships in this city when the free mail service is established. Fifteen have secured application blanks from Postmaster Richey, and these have been sent to the secretary of the civil service commission at Portland. When the applications are all in, which must be before the 21st of this month, the commission will prepare the questions to be answered, and on the 21st of March the large list of candidates will be given the examination. The two highest papers will secure the position as mail carrier in La Grande.

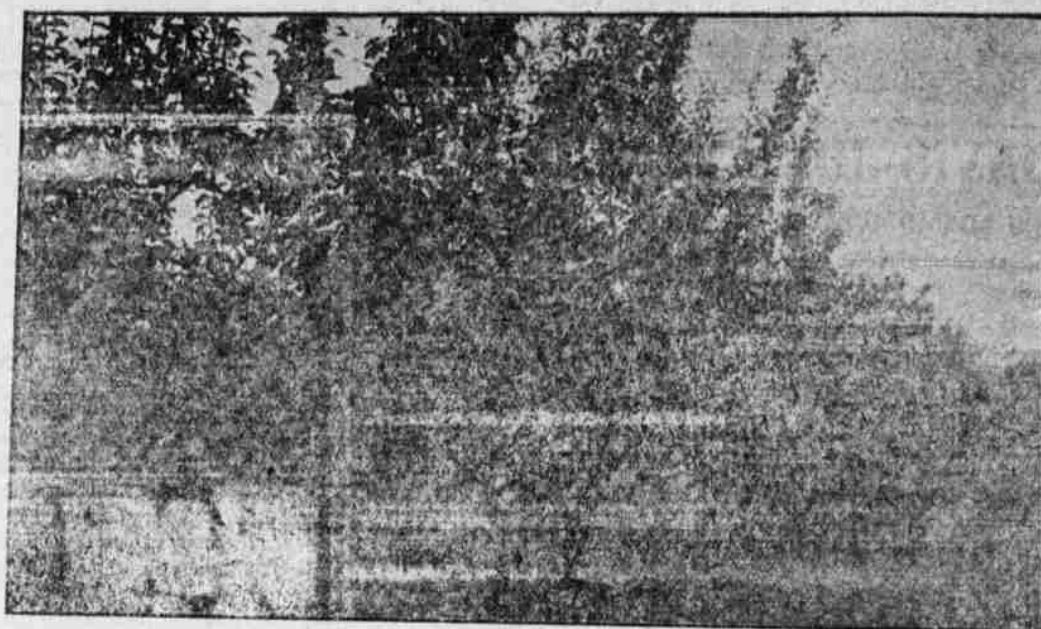

The position carries with it a salary of $50 for the first year and regular annual increases, until something like $80 per month has been reached.

USES GRAVES AS ROSTRUM

Chicago, March 9.—Denied the right of free speech within the city limits, Emma Goldman, the female anarchist, today led a number of followers to the graves of the Haymarket rioters.

When asked whether there was any special significance in this, she said:

"I have been denied the right of free speech within the city limits, but they won't bother me out there. I have a right to go there. I am not challenging interference from the police, but I will test the right of free speech in Chicago."
