YOUR WORK

Is what we want. We don't call on you one week for it and tell you the next we cannot do it for you. We want it now, and all the time. We do not think it necessary at this time to say anything about the class of work we turn out. The fact that we have been in the LAUNDRY business for twelve years in La Grande we think sufficient evidence that our work is satisfactory. Try it.

HANFORD WORKS HARD

The amount of work that Charles B. Hanford puts into each season's production has been frequently commented on with wondering admiration. It is an old custom to say that a manager has spared neither pains nor expense, when it is desired to impress the magnitude of his offering. In the case of Hanford the phrase may be properly revived. It applied with accuracy. A series of stage settings, spectacular in design and lavishly beautiful in execution, assist in the representation of that marvelous poem-pageant, "Antony and Cleopatra." In selecting this play, Mr. Hanford carries out a definite scheme of chronology. His production of "Julius Caesar" last year told the story of Antony, the orator and warrior. This season will reveal his as the lover. In "Antony and Cleopatra" Miss Alice Wilson is cast as Cleopatra, a role the possibilities of which are limitless. The constant play of emotion in this strange revelation of complex possibilities of a woman's nature calls for the utmost powers that an actress can command. As tender in her devotion as Juliet, as winsome when she so wills to be, as Viola, as vivacious of mind as Estarice, she is as terrible when roused to tragic determination, as Lady Macbeth. Antony is far from being the consistent hero that strict moral standards would demand. Indeed, the majority of Shakespeare's more prominent characters would scarcely pass muster as invariable examples for the guidance of youth. But Antony is nevertheless a great man; one who is worshipped by his friend; feared by his foe. The passion which warped his career might under different circumstances and with another object have been a virtue instead of a fault. As it was, he paid a heavy and relentless penalty for his one weakness.

"Antony and Cleopatra" will be Mr. Hanford's play at Steward's opera house on Monday, March 23.

Walla Walla Strike is Over.
Differences which have existed for the past few days between the Washington Printing & Book Manufacturing company and its printers were settled after a conference held yesterday afternoon between officials of the company and H. H. George, state organizer and personal representative of President Lynch of the International organization. The points of difference were referred to officials of the International Typographical union, and the printers returned to work under the same conditions as obtained before the strike, until a decision is reached by the international officers. —Walla Walla Union.

Boom Bryan at Banquet.
Kansas City, Mo., March 12.—William J. Bryan will be the principal orator at what the promoters say will be the biggest political banquet ever held in the United States, to be held here on the night of March 29 by the Young Men's Democratic club of Missouri. Convention hall will be the scene of the mammoth feed. Over a thousand guests are expected.
