THE FAIR

Battle With Coyote.

Mrs. T. A. Caldwell, who lives on the M. Wingfield ranch near Adel, performed one of the most daring feats Tuesday morning of this week, that it has been our experience to chronicle in this country. Shortly after her husband had left the house for his day's work on that morning, a coyote came to the chicken yard and made a raid on the chickens. Mrs. Caldwell went to chase the coyote away, not believing that a coyote would tackle a person. But she was surprised when the thing took after her. She started to run, tripped and fell prone on the ground. The coyote jumped on top of her and sank his teeth in her breast. She grabbed Mr. Coyote by the throat and with a death grip choked it to death. The coyote's teeth were fastened in her clothing and she succeeded in overpowering him and never loosened her grip until her desperate victim was dead—and dead to stay. The coyote was skinned and Mrs. Caldwell will undoubtedly keep the hide as a souvenir of the most blood-curdling experience of her life.—Lakeview Examiner.

Advertising Wallowa County.

The county court has just had printed a description of the county, telling of its resources. These copies should be sent to prospective settlers in the east, and all who have friends there who might be influenced to locate in Oregon are asked to mail one of these booklets to them. Any reader of the Chieftain may secure one or more copies by dropping us a line, and we will see that they are sent by the next mail. Now is the time to get new people to come to our county.

Begin at once and all work together and the results will begin to show before the crops are harvested next fall.—Wallowa Chieftain.

ELECTRIC SHOW OPENS

"More for the same money," is the way Manager Sherwood enthusiastically announces his first performance at the Electric tonight after seven weeks of idleness. Tonight at 7 o'clock, the first performance opens and the playhouse patrons will see something immense after the rest. Where formerly there were two films and one song, there will now be three films and two songs, making the length of the performance a full hour. The cost for this treat remains the same as it was under the original plans.

There will be a continuous performance tonight. The patrons have been longing for this event for these many weeks, and the manager expects a packed house at each performance tonight. The full program appears in the Electric theater ad in this issue.

Matinees Resumed. The Wednesday matinee for ladies, when souvenirs are given, will be resumed this week. So will also the Saturday 5-cent matinee for children.

Eberhard Returns Hopeful.

Attorney Colon R. Eberhard left this morning for his home at Joseph. He declined to discuss his chances for nomination for joint representative, since another candidate has entered the field further than to state he expects to carry Joseph, the home precinct of both candidates, by a handsome majority and also to carry Wallowa county.

It is claimed that at the hot city election in Joseph a year ago, that both candidates were before the people, and that out of a total vote of 150 cast, Mr. Eberhard received 99 for recorder and Mr. Rusk 59 for councilman. Eberhard's friends claim strength for him in the country districts particularly.

Death of Mrs. McKenzie.

Mrs. William McKenzie of Wallowa, died at the home of Hector McDonald in Lower Valley, Monday afternoon, after an illness of two weeks. The news came as a shock to the people of this city, as she was well known throughout the county, having taught school several years in various districts of the county before she was married.—Wallowa Chieftain.
