MESSAGE IS READ

Salient Clauses in Mayor Hall's Message.
Economy, but not foolish penuriousness.
Retrenchment in expenditure where permissible.
A new water supply.
Urgent need for efficient sewer should instigate immediate action and be completed as the finances permit.
Paving or crushed rock top for Depot street and Adams avenue.
Senior councilmen head the various committees.

Immediately upon his introduction to the new council last night, Mayor M. K. Hall read his message. It is not a lengthy communication, but bristles with pointed truths and a limited amount of requisite legislation. It follows, with the full personnel of the new committee:

Gentlemen of the City Council:
One of the most wholesome doctrines of democratic government is that a public office is a public trust and not an ownership.

In this connection I conceive it to be the duty of those in whom such public trust is placed, to perform for the public, whom they represent, as efficient service as they would in their own interest under like circumstances.

The public in the recent election in this city had in issue and has pronounced in favor of economical methods and greater care in the expenditure of the public money in municipal government. In my opinion public economy does not mean foolish penuriousness, but it does mean that we should live within our income, spend the revenues in a careful manner and where they will produce the greatest benefits for the greatest number. It is not my policy to make promises that can never be fulfilled, advocate propositions that are visionary, nor, on the other hand, to assume a position that would be indicative of weakness and incompetency in the face of official duty and tend to retard the legitimate growth of the city or menace its progress, but I can and do promise to do as much in the position with which the public has seen fit to honor me as my ability and the conditions will permit.

I wish to call your attention to a few measures, the carrying out of which appears to me absolutely essential to the city's welfare.

1. Retrenchment in expenditure where permissible.
2. A new water supply.

3. An efficient sewer system. This has been hoped for for years, but we appear to get no nearer to its consummation. The principal reason in my opinion is that each time it is considered the aggregate cost seems to render it an impossibility. Why cannot the system be begun, partially obtained this year, and extended each year hereafter until it is complete and all are benefited? A feasible plan in my opinion would be to have surveys made, plans draughted for the whole system and steps taken toward obtaining a main this year, and the extensions projected each year hereafter by our successors, so that in a few years a complete sewer system would be a reality.

4. Better streets. Depot street and Adams avenue especially—the two thoroughfares most in use—should be improved in the business district at least, in conformity with the cement sidewalks and crossings, either by paving or crushed rock top dressing.

This should be a possibility of this administration without a public tax or depreciation of the expected revenue.

With these observations, and a reiteration of the promise to do all that lies in my power to render as efficient service as the chief officer as possible with my time and ability, I ask your earnest consideration and that industrious co-operation, hoping that the same will be greeted with the approbation of those whom we serve.

As the council is now organized, I submit my committee appointments as follows:

Water—Williamson, Bolton, Bay, Streets—Monroe, Kreiger, Curtis, Andrews.
Finance—Meyers, Bay, Curtis.
Ways and Means—Bolton, Williamson, Kreiger.

Police—Andrews, Curtis, Monroe.
Judiciary—Bay, Meyers, Bolton.
In choosing the committees I have followed the plan of placing the senior members at the heads, believing that experience, when properly used, qualifies a man for better service, and have tried to so apportion the work among all, that to each falls the part for the performance of which, in my opinion, he is best fitted.

M. K. HALL.
