DROWNED WHILE INTOXICATED.

Barney Milady, an Old Man, Meets Unfortunate End.

Barney Milady, an old man who had been employed as watch at Humble & McCully's sawmill, about six miles below the Wallowa bridge, was found dead last Friday morning in a small ditch about one mile above the mill, says the Elgin Recorder.

The old man had gone from the mill to the Canyon hotel on the night of March 8th, for supplies, and stayed at the hotel that night, leaving early the next morning for the mill with a sack load of supplies thrown across his back, and was seen about 1 o'clock that afternoon about two miles below the fish hatchery by John Fisher and wife. So far as can be ascertained, that was the last time he was seen alive, and nothing was known of him until found last Friday morning by John Fisher and others who had started down to the mill for lumber.

When within about one mile of the mill Mr. Fisher and friends found the body of the old man lying in a ditch, face downward. Fisher immediately went to the Canyon house and notified the company of his death, and they in turn notified the coroner of Wallowa county, who impaneled a jury and proceeded to the place where the unfortunate victim had been found.

After looking over the ground it was decided not to hold an inquest, as it was evident that the man had met death by drowning, all circumstances pointing to that fact. Close to the man was an empty whiskey flask and it is thought that the unfortunate imbibed too freely and had fallen into the ditch in a helpless condition and was unable to get out. The ditch was small and the water was so shallow that a portion of his head emerged above the surface. The unfortunate had evidently emptied the bottle at that point while on his way to the mill with his supplies and toppled into the ditch in a drunken condition. Although the body had been in the ditch for 13 days, it was in an almost perfect state.

The remains were prepared for burial at the Canyon hotel and conveyed to the Joseph cemetery, where they were interred Sunday, and where he said some time ago that he wanted to be laid to rest.

No Use to Die.

"I have found out that there is no use to die of lung trouble as long as you can get Dr. King's New Discovery," says Mrs. J. P. White, of Rushboro, Pa. "I would not be alive today only for that wonderful medicine. It loosens up a cough quicker than anything else, and cures lung disease even after the case is pronounced hopeless." This most reliable remedy for coughs and colds, la grippe, asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness, is sold under guarantee at the Newell drug store. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

Change Road at Milton.

A Milton special says there was considerable interest manifested by local people in the visit here yesterday of a party of O. R. & N. officials. The party consisted of J. H. O'Neil, traveling passenger agent of Portland; R. B. Mills, general freight agent, also of Portland, and Messrs. Burns and Calderhead of Walla Walla.

While the officials of the Harriman line were reticent as to the object of their visit, the rumor has gotten abroad that they were looking into the feasibility of making a cut-off between here and Weston. Should this be the case they would likely abandon the present route on Dry creek, and run from the trestle across the Tumalum southerly through the eastern portion of Milton. Survey of this route were made several years ago, and found to be practicable.

The New Books.

It is safe to declare, with a very small mental reservation, that every one likes a love story, and that "all the world loves a lover." But love stories are suffering from a sameness of plot, a monotonous repetition of the first meeting, of the inevitable misunderstanding, the same miraculous reconciliation, and the living happily ever afterward.

"In Pursuit of Priscilla" is a love story, one of the very latest to be told in print. Strange to say, there is no quarrel, not even a first meeting recorded; the two men and the girl actively; the dog and the auto passively. The sub-title of the book is "The Man Willing and the Woman Willful." But Priscilla is not so very willful after all, for didn't she say in the end, "And, Billy—" "Yes, dear?" "I hope you didn't think I was going to England without you."
