COUNTY DIVISION IMPOSSIBLE.

Legislature Now Has No Power to Create or Divide Counties.

Rumors that certain candidates for the legislature are in favor of county division, are not only without foundation, but if such was the case, the matter is entirely without the province of the legislature, as section 2, of article XI of the constitution of Oregon absolutely prohibits the legislature from creating a county by a law passed for that purpose.

To show how entirely improbable it is that the legislature will ever pass a general law on the subject, it is only necessary to recall the fact that Hood River has gone before the people of the whole state in its effort to have Wasco county divided. It is therefore patent that any rumor to the effect that any of the candidates favor county division are not caused by any real fear that there is any danger, but by political purposes alone.

Children's Day at White House.

Washington, April 15.—Next Monday will be Children's day at the White House, and all the little tots of the national capital are looking forward with ill-restrained glee to the great event. It will be "egg-rolling time" on the handsome lawn south of the executive mansion and, as in past years, President Roosevelt will cause it to be thrown open unreservedly to the children. And the lawn will be exclusively for the kiddies.

Unless a grown-up is accompanied by a tot too young to take care of himself, the big policemen who guard the gates blandly smile and furnish the information that the little people have a monopoly on the grounds.

The White House lot is the center of the child life of Washington on Easter Monday. It is not the only park to which the little folks resort, but it is the center—the headquarters of all the fun. The president usually steps out into the rear balcony of the White House and studies the pretty picture presented by thousands of happy children. And Mrs. Roosevelt always spends some time watching the antics of the egg-rollers. Some times the president takes time for a few words and he never has so appreciative an audience anywhere else. For the little folks can realize to a surprising degree that the first man in the land is speaking to them and that the first lady in the land stands beside him smiling upon them.

When the gates open at 9 o'clock Monday morning hordes of little children bearing baskets of eggs of every shade and hue will be on hand. They are preparing now for the festival and will be on pins and needles much of the time until the eventful hour rolls around. No distinction will be made as to rich or poor, white or black—it will be children's day, and that is all. Between the hours of 9 and 1 the little folks will romp until they are weary, roll eggs, "pick" with each other until their eggs are all broken, and then be ready to leave, for the fun stops one hour after noon.

The big folks will be amply repaid later in the afternoon, when the United States marine band will give a concert in the same park between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30.

Funeral of Miss Palmer.

The funeral of Miss Ethel Palmer was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Second and Place streets. Hundreds of friends of Miss Palmer gathered to pay a farewell tribute to the memory of one who had been so kind and loving in her lifetime. Many of the business men were in attendance to show their sympathy for the bereaved father. The service was conducted by Rev. Barry of St. Stephen's church, while the Rebekahs, of which order she was a member, had charge of the ceremonies at the grave. The floral tributes were lavish and beautiful, a small token of love from the many friends who mourn her untimely death.—Baker City Herald.

Commercial Teachers.

Philadelphia, April 15.—What promises to be the most successful convention in the history of the Eastern Commercial Teachers' association will be held Friday and Saturday. Visitors are arriving in the city today in large numbers and are being received by the local entertainment committees. Tomorrow morning will be spent in sight seeing and the convention will be formally opened tomorrow afternoon.
