MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Portland Paper Gets Joe Blakely Mixed With Sheriff Childers.

Joe Blakely, deputy sheriff, has been the victim of mistaken identity and today he has been heavily "joshed" by the others in the sheriff's office, relates the Pendleton East Oregonian.

In last evening's Portland Journal appeared a story describing how Deputy Blakely had passed through Portland en route for Salem with George Miller, a most desperate character. According to the Portland story the prisoner wore an Oregon boot and in addition was adorned with handcuffs and while waiting for the Salem train to depart he was locked up in the county jail for safekeeping.

In writing the story the Journal reporter confused the Umatilla county deputy with Sheriff Childers of La Grande for it was the Union county sheriff that had Miller in custody.

But at the same time Blakely was in Portland bound for Salem with McCoy and Ericson, the two young men who robbed the Furnish warehouse. They were mild young men and were not put in irons by the deputy sheriff, who like many other officers, takes a pride in handling prisoners without humiliating them with too much hardware, unless occasion demands.

But in view of the notoriety he was given by the Portland paper it has been hard for Joe to convince the others in the office that he did not make use of the boot and handcuffs.
