GRAFTING FARMERS

One of the boldest pieces of grafting that has been consummated in Union county for some time, is now being "sprung" on the farmers of this valley. If statements made by shippers concerning one F. Gaines of Umatilla county, are correct. According to the rumors Mr. Gaines has several farmers on his string out about Imbler. He has promised these unsuspecting shippers, it is alleged, that he will secure a liberal rate reduction, and in return for his services he is to secure a certain percentage of the reduction—in most cases 50 per cent. He poses as a servant of the railroad commission. In The Observer office last Saturday he asserted that he was working in conjunction with the railroad commission of Oregon, but wanted no press notoriety at this time. "Later on, perhaps," said he, "we will have something for the press."

When pressed to explain his situation and business, after attempting several times to extract information relative to rates, etc., from this office he answered evasively. Mr. Gaines is known to many people of this county for he has been here some time. If his business is legitimate, then The Observer is in error, but if the rumors are true, the man's business is anything but straight and is not deserving of patronage. If any one can lower the rate it is the duty of the commission, which is paid by the state, and not the duty of a private individual to secure the reductions and pocket a portion of the profit saved to the shippers.

AFTER "PASSION" WEEK.

New Electric Has Strong Set of Films to Open Week With.

After "Passion" week at the New Electric, Manager Sherwood has a strong set of films that intermingle comedy and pathos. The week opens with an especially fine set of films. The two songs are good and will be good drawing features for the house. The Blon's promise is the feature of the attractions. It relates a pathetic story that ends with tragedy. A Briton and his sweetheart are first seen as lovers. They agree to marry later. The girl's father insists on another marriage and the unfortunate nuptials take place. The lover returns later to find his sweetheart lost to him. However, the girl maintains her love is still warm and the two jump from a high cliff to the briny deep to end the unfortunate wedding.
