VOTE ON DRY MOVEMENT

Raleigh, N. C., May 25.—Another state may be added to the totally dry area on the temperance map as a result of the special prohibition election to be held in North Carolina tomorrow. While the "wets" have made a desperate battle, it is considered almost certain that the prohibitionists will win a sweeping victory and that all of the saloons in the Old North state will be forced to close their doors on January 1 next, when the new law will become effective.

While public sentiment against the liquor traffic is such that the measure would probably have secured a majority without any campaign whatever, the "drys" have carried on an extensive crusade and have utilized every possible method of turning public sentiment against the saloons. Governor Glenn has been a leader in temperance movement and has covered a considerable portion of the state, stumping for prohibition, during the campaign. Prominent jurists, clergymen, lawyers, legislators and other public men have also taken part in the crusade against the rum demon, with the end of making the assurance of prohibition doubly sure. United States Judge Peter C. Pritchard has delivered several addresses and three ex-governors, nearly all the North Carolina congressmen and speakers from other states have assisted in the movement. Ex-Governor Jarvis has been one of the leaders of the crusade.

The campaign in North Carolina has been marked by the religious, ethical and emotional appeals that have been so effective in other states and cities of the south. Meetings have been held in every school house and church, the speakers demanding in an impassioned manner the "saving of the children and the home." Women and children praying and singing, have held meetings on the streets and banners and posters bearing prohibition sentiments have appeared everywhere. Temperance literature has been spread broadcast through the state.

The prohibition campaign in North Carolina had its inception immediately following the disfranchisement of negro voters eight years ago. At that time there were saloons in nearly every county in the commonwealth, and hundreds of distilleries, most of which have already been put out of business, were running at their full capacity. The distilling industry was a large and important one, but the prohibitionists assert that the state has been more prosperous since most of them have abolished, than before. As in other sections of the south, the race question has played an important part in the prohibition campaign. It is alleged that crimes against women have become much less frequent in all parts of the south where prohibition has been enforced and that the traffic in vile liquors has been largely responsible for the commission of such crimes.

Vote for the increased appropriation for the University of Oregon. Don't brand Oregon as a "mossback" state. Vote "yes" on election day. The bill has been endorsed by all the Oregon Commercial clubs, teachers' associations, the State Federation of Labor and the Taxpayers' league of Portland.

Strayed or Stolen.

A sorrel filly, 2 years old; branded "F. B." on left shoulder. White stripe full length of forehead, and one white hind foot. One bay, 2-year-old, branded the same as first named, leading to recovery. Fred Braden, Ladd Canyon.

The people would better hang onto what they have gained, in the matter of government.

If you believe in education vote "yes" No. 314, for the University of Oregon appropriation bill.
