HOW MONEY WILL BE SPENT.

New Buildings Will Go Up, New Men Be Hired and Apparatus Bought.

A University of Oregon dispatch says:

Since the people of Oregon have shown by their votes that they are so heartily in favor of the appropriation for the state university at Eugene, they may desire to know specifically how this appropriation of $125,000 annually will be used. For the past several years the university has been receiving an annual appropriation of $47,000, which, together with incidental fees and the interest from the Villard fund and special appropriations from time to time, has made up about $75,000 annually; and for the several years just past the variety has been run and was run this year on a $75,000 basis. The new annual appropriation of $125,000 merges all the special appropriations into one.

As the university has more than doubled in attendance in the past two years, the present running basis is inefficient. All the buildings and apparatus are far too small and too few. The new library building and the small cottage for the women of the university, both of which are badly needed, could not be furnished nor heated this year, owing to lack of funds. Both these buildings must be furnished at once. The library, which touches all departments of the university alike, needs an annual expenditure of $10,000 for several years to bring it up to even an ordinary standard of efficiency. Additional instructors are needed in several of the departments whose salaries will amount to $10,000 or $15,000 yearly. A women's dormitory and boarding hall must be put up at once. It is estimated this will cost about $50,000. Another building is needed for class, laboratory and recitation purposes which will cost about $75,000, and the power and water plant, which has been greatly over-taxed this last year, will take $10,000 or $15,000 to meet the demands upon it for heating, irrigating and fire protection. The campus should be enlarged also, for it is now too small and crowded. The land which borders it and which the university considers buying as soon as funds are available, is growing in value every year, and buying it now will mean saving considerable money.

These improvements will cost from $125,000 to $150,000, enough to absorb the amount above the annual running expenses for several years. When the state legislature passed the $125,000 appropriation this year, of course it did not make any special appropriation and when the $125,000 was held up by the referendum the university was forced, as it were, to run an $80,000 business on $55,000. This could only be done by cutting down expenses wherever possible, and for three months last fall no member of the faculty received a cent's remuneration, taking notes for his money and relying upon the people of the state to support the appropriation; and thus make the notes good. The university will close this year without a cent of money on hand, and it will require careful handling and scheming to make the $125,000 do the work the university needs it to do. "All expenditures are paid by the university steward, who is under heavy bonds. This bill, however, must have been "O. K.'d" by the steward, president and finally the board of regents before it is paid, so there is little chance for any money to go astray.

The Illinois Central has just placed an order for 52,000 tons of steel rails, to cost $1,450,000. This is the largest rail contract let since the beginning of the financial stringency and can hardly be said to have a good effect in restoring confidence in other lines of trade. The price reported paid for these rails would indicate that the steel trust has made no concessions, and that it still considers the old figure "reasonable." There will, of course, be a gradual resumption of buying of rails even at trust prices, but the return of activity in railroad building would be hastened if the trust would reduce prices on rails and structural steel in Oregon.
