OREGON VICTORIOUS.

The week just closed has been a felicitous one for the University of Oregon. Since our last edition of the Weekly our track team has defeated Washington and Idaho on the track; our baseball team has won two out of three games played; Max Snow has won the singles in the tennis tournament giving Oregon the northwest championship in this event; and to cap the climax of all these victories, Jesse H. Bond, '09, with his masterful oration "The Evolution of Character," has been successful in winning first place in the Interstate Oratorical contest over the representatives of the state universities of Idaho and Washington. Verily, Oregon students have good reason for rejoicing over what our representatives in the various lines of activity have done for us.

The loyalty that has been shown during the trying months of the last year is commendable. Faculty, alumni and students alike have stood firm and remained loyal to our university even when things looked blackest. This kind of spirit will continue to bring victories to Oregon. Our faculty members have unselfishly gone without pay during the last three months for the sake of the university; our alumni have neglected their business and their professions to devote all their energies to the passage of the appropriation bill. Students have caught the spirit and flooded the state with letters urging others to stand by the varsity. The University of Oregon is now about to enter upon a new phase of her career. The standard of spirit, of loyalty brought out more strongly than ever during our period of adversity is a fit criterion for future generations to live up to.—Oregon Weekly.

YOUR WORK

Is what we want. We don't call on you one week for it and tell you the next we cannot do it for you. We want it now, and all the time. We do not think it necessary at this time to say anything about the class of work we turn out. The fact that we have been in the LAUNDRY business for twelve years in La Grande we think sufficient evidence that our work is satisfactory. Try it.
