M'CASLIN IS GUILTY

Pendleton, June 18.—Webb McCaslin has been found guilty of murder in the second degree in the circuit court at Heppner and must spend the remainder of his natural life behind prison walls.

McCaslin killed E. F. Kaspell, a Heppner butcher, early last fall while the two were driving out to a hay ranch in a hack. The murderer struck his victim over the head, killing him instantly.

He then disappeared and was traced from Heppner to Echo, then to Pendleton and was later found working on a ranch near Spokane. He was taken back and the case went to trial last week.

McCaslin pleaded self-defense and put up a strong fight, but as he was the only important witness in his own behalf and as all the circumstances tended to show that he was not justified in the killing, the jury brought in the verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree, after being out a few hours.

At 1:30 this afternoon, Judge Bean sentenced the murderer to life imprisonment.

Dan Doherty, recently found guilty of murder in the second degree in the same court, has not been sentenced yet and probably will not be for some time, as his attorney, Judge Fee of this city, has filed a motion for a new trial.

District Attorney Phelps, having completed the prosecution of the criminal cases before the Morrow county court, left for home this morning and will arrive in Pendleton this afternoon on the Portland local.
