HEAR BUD BARNES CASE

Walla Walla, June 24.—The Bulletin said last night:

The Bud Barnes murder trial is scheduled to start in the superior court again Wednesday, commencing at 9 a. m., when the work of picking the jury which is to hear the evidence will start.

A venire of some 130 names has been drawn and from this list the 12 men who will decide Barnes' fate may be chosen.

The trial is expected to take up considerable more time than did the other one, owing to the difficulty in getting a jury.

The last trial resulted in a disagreement, the jury standing 9 to 3 in favor of conviction on the charge of murder in the first degree. The plea of insanity interposed by Barnes' attorneys caused the disagreement.

Edward Mills, E. F. Baker and Oscar Cain will defend Barnes, while Prosecuting Attorney Rupp and Deputies McDonald and Bryson will handle the state's case.

McClellan Proves Master.

In a program of widely varied and beautifully balanced numbers, J. J. McClellan, organist of the Mormon tabernacle, Salt Lake, gave at the First Methodist church last night a demonstration of how flexible an instrument is the pipe organ in the hands of a master. His concert included everything from the brilliant concert numbers of Bach and Gullmunt to dainty lyrics like Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and Callaert's "Intermezzo," and in all of them the artist was at his best.

The audience that heard him was not a large one, but it was quick to show its appreciation of Mr. McClellan's work, forcing him after many selections to respond to encores. It was generous in its applause of local musicians on the program, evincing a desire to hear more of the Y. M. C. A. male chorus, under whose auspices the concert was given, and which appeared in two songs in the first part of the program. The chorus made its first public appearance last night, and left an excellent impression, having evidently received much good training. There are a number of fine voices in the club and their harmonization is well worked out.

The playing of Mr. McClellan was the feature of the evening, however, the big instrument in the church giving him a chance to justify his title to "the greatest organist in America." He began with a concert overture by Faulkes, in which there were a number of orchestral effects, "Visions," by Rheinberger, following. He sprang a surprise in the next number, "Palm Sunday," giving to the accompaniment of soft chimes that suited beautifully the charming composition. In response to an encore he repeated part of the number.

"Andantino," by Lemars, and a selection from "Lohengrin" opened the second part of the program, the "Tannhauser" "Pilgrim's Chorus" being given an impressive rendition from an arrangement by the player. In place of Saint Saens' "The Swan" Mr. McClellan concluded his second part with Gullmunt's composition, "Toccata From Sixth Symphony," a number the dashing brilliance of which won hearty applause.

Some of the best of the numbers were those in the last portion of the concert, excerpts from "Mignon," another of the Gullmunt compositions, and the "Evening Star" song from "Tannhauser," being followed by the "Oberon Overture."

Mr. McClellan's playing was a revelation to many who were not familiar with the vast range of musical possibilities in the pipe organ music. Under his hands the one instrument became a whole orchestra, to be controlled by the one man and strengthened or subdued at his will. All profits of the concert go toward the purchase of the grand piano now in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building.—Spokesman-Review.

Natural Ice is The Best

THINGS ARTIFICIAL ARE AT BEST BUT A DECEPTIVE IMITATION OF THINGS NATURAL. Can an impure fountain send forth pure water? Our ice is not dependent upon a brewery or saloon for its supply. It is furnished by the God of Nature, Who sends forth the sparkling streams from the mountain side. It is taken from the river above the duck ponds and sawmills, and is the PUREST ICE on THIS MARKET.
