ASCENSION SUCCESSFUL

The balloon ascension from the ball park yesterday evening following the baseball game was very successful. Prof. Hicks was favored with a still evening, and everything happened as per schedule. The balloon went nearly straight up. When the parachute was cut loose the aerial artist was almost over the baseball field. Parachute, man and balloon all came down within an eighth of a mile from where they went up. Prof. Hicks makes another ascension on the Fourth of July.

LETTER FROM ALASKA

W. S. Burnett of this city, has received a letter from his son, John E. Burnett, who is at Treadwell, Alaska. The interesting communication to the La Grande relatives says in part:

"We only have two Sundays or holidays in the year, that is, the Fourth of July and Christmas. Well, spring has just arrived up here, the flowers have just put in their appearance, and I think in two or three weeks more the snow will all be gone, and then it won't seem so lonesome for there is good hunting close to the camp. We are building a log house now for a bunk house. It rains so hard over here that it takes two tents to turn the water, one stretched over the top of the other. There have only been 12 days of summer here since we arrived the 11th of May. There are all kinds of wild berries growing here in the mountains, and as for game, it is plentiful, such as bear, deer and grouse. I will now give you a description of the island. It is 15 miles long and about three miles in width, and is all mountains, the highest one being 3500 feet high. It is called Mt. Jumbo. The mine is at the foot of Jumbo mountain. There are five all told and all belong to one company. There are three towns, Treadwell, Douglas City and Juneau. Juneau is not on the island."

"JOHN E. BURNETT."
