DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES

The Washington and Oregon delegates and alternates to the democratic convention about to assemble in Denver passed through La Grande this morning. There are 22 Oregon men in the crowd, eight of them delegates, the rest alternates and visitors. Washington is entitled to 19 votes in the convention, but according to Mr. Travis, delegate from Eugene, this state, there will be 20 Washingtonians in attendance, each entitled to one-half a vote. The sentiment of these western men seemed to be entirely for Bryan, some saying that he will be nominated on the first ballot, in spite of the fact that a two-thirds vote is necessary. Johnson, although conceded to be a strong man, is not regarded as the favorite by any means. One delegate was heard to say that the roll call will not have been completed before Bryan is assured of the nomination. J. D. Slater, alternate from this district, before boarding the train this morning to join his confreres, in answer to a question from an Observer representative, gave as his sentiments and belief regarding the convention, practically what is given above. Mr. Slater believes that the principal struggle will take place over the platform. In regard to the anti-injunction plank, Mr. Slater said: "Both capital and labor need the injunction. It has been greatly abused, but I am not able to see that a strict anti-injunction law would help anyone. It would make the small property owner helpless in any struggle with a powerful corporation, and I believe that the democratic convention will treat this question in a manner that will meet the approval of all reasonable men. In regard to the liquor question, it is not probable that a national prohibition plank will be placed in the platform, but it may happen that a plank designed to help the prohibition states will find favor. I believe that Bryan, conceding his nomination, will be elected to the presidency."

CITY STILL LIVES.

Nothing to Indicate That Pendleton Has Been Hurt by Prohibition.

There has been little in the appearance of Main street the past few days to indicate that the abolition of the saloons will hurt the city to any extent. In nearly half the cases the saloon men are still in their old locations selling soft drinks and cigars and booze, while in other places the bar room furniture is being moved out to make room for other concerns. Last night was a very quiet one for the police and there was not a single victim for the police court this morning.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

Can an impure fountain send forth pure water? Our ice is not dependent upon a brewery or saloon for its supply. It is furnished by the God of Nature, Who sends forth the sparkling streams from the mountain side.
