MAKE NEAR BEER HERE

ROESCH BREWERY SOON TO RESUME ACTIVITIES.

Rather Than Miss Business Which Would Naturally Go to Walla or Other Out of the County Breweries, Julius Roesch Will Dispose of His Stock on Hand by Making the Substitute for Beer—Employs More Men.

Wheels of the Julius Roesch brewery in this city are soon to revolve again, and not in violation of the local option law, if present plans under advisement by the proprietor materialize. Mr. Roesch has given serious consideration to the manufacture of near-beer and already is stocking up with the additional information required. In the event that he does, it will require about three weeks' time to get the brewery in action again. There is no reason why he would not dispose of this malt and stock in general, which he had accumulated for the manufacture of beer before the local option law passed, by making near beer.

The Process.
While there are tricks in the trade which the uninitiated do not comprehend, the general plan of making near beer is very simple. The substitute beer is a product of real beer. When real beer is made it is boiled, or pasteurized, until practically all the alcohol is used up. That, in the rough is the whole plan of near beer manufacture.

Local soft drink emporiums will in many instances soon be dealing in near beer and there is no reason why the product should not be bought from local dealers rather than from Walla Walla or Portland manufacturers. The process of making near beer requires more effort, hence a larger payroll in the Roesch brewery.

Mr. Roesch said today that he had all but decided to pursue this course.

CAMPS SANITARY.
Construction Camp at the Wallowa River Supplied With Good Water.
The camp at the mouth of the Wallowa river, where the activities on the Wallowa extension center, is a highly sanitary place. The group of tents for the laboring men, and offices for the contractor, foreman and other heads, all make a small village. Engineer Brandon has piped splendid water from a spring on the mountain side, and every tent is supplied with excellent drinking water.

The work of laying steel is progressing nicely. Conductor Mytinger's work train is taking all the material from Elgin out to the front. There is a hum of spike and hammer, and a general noise of industry all along the line.
