AN OLD PIONEER

Sixty-one years in Oregon. This is almost a natural lifetime, but such is the record of a gentleman who is now visiting in La Grande. The gentleman referred to is the Hon. S. M. Pennington, father of C. C. Pennington, one of our well known and respected citizens. S. M. Pennington is now 84 years old, but hale and hearty. To those unacquainted with his age he appears many years younger. He stands erect, walks with a sprightly vigor and speaks with the strength, clearness and vim of a man of 40. He explained to a couple of boys whom he was watching clean a bicycle that he also rode a wheel and thought nothing of riding a 10 or 15-mile trip for pleasure and believed that, should necessity arise, he could wheel off 50 miles in a day and not feel any the worse for the trip. His personal appearance is such that no one need have reason to doubt his ability to accomplish the feat. Mr. Pennington is one of Oregon's oldest pioneers. He came to this state in 1847, starting from McComb, Ill., April 25, 1847, and arriving in Oregon City September of the same year. Soon after reaching Oregon City he went to Albany, Ore., where he settled upon a donation land claim. He still owns this tract of land and resides there the greater portion of the time. For 17 years he resided in Umatilla county and for two terms represented that county in the state senate. In 1855 he returned to his Albany farm, where he has since resided.

During his residence of 61 years in Oregon he has seen many changes. He distinctly remembers the time when hunting was good where the Portland city hall now stands, and the only means of crossing the Willamette was the log canoe of the Indian or Hudson Bay trapper. He has seen the stage coach supplant the ox team and the Pullman in turn supersede the stage. He has seen the little pioneer settlement gathered about the Hudson Bay trading post at Oregon City grow and expand, and become one of the grandest states in the Union. He has seen mountains, rivers and valleys made to yield their wealth to the thousands of men and women who have followed the trail made by him and his few score pioneer friends. He has seen a wilderness subdued, and farms, villages and cities take its place. And, greater and better yet, he has the pleasure of knowing that during all the time that this wonderful transformation has been taking place his hand has not been idle, and he has been an able and important factor in the recreation of Oregon. May he live many years longer and be able to note that the present generation will receive the heritage of a ready-made state with fitting respect and deliver it to its children with as splendid a record of progress and achievement as did the pioneers of whom S. N. Pennington is a true type.

Pendleton Tribune Scorched.

A small fire of mysterious origin in the office of the Pendleton Morning Tribune this morning, was discovered just in time to prevent the destruction of the plant. The fire started in the pile of papers collected about the folder after the last boy had gone out and the office was deserted. A. O. Carden and Fred Olcott, coming to work for the day at 7:30, discovered the blaze, which had cleaned up the floor and had started in on the wall. By heroic work they extinguished the flames without the aid of the department. It is conceded that a few minutes more and the interior of the plant would have been in flames.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold. A. J. Nustbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." A. T. Hill, druggist.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.
