FOREST FIRES RAGING AGAIN

FAMOUS BIG TREES HOTEL SERIOUSLY THREATENED.

Much Heavy Timber Burned in Calaveras County Near Stockton—Forest Rangers With Large Force of Men Resisting Onslaught by Back-firing —Flames Creep Up on Noted Hotel —Fire Spreading Since Last Monday—Fine Timber Gone.

Stockton, Cal., Sept. 2.—According to a special dispatch to the Record this morning from Murphy's camp, Calaveras county, a big forest fire broke out Monday and is now burning on the edge of the big trees. Last night the fire burned to within 200 yards of the famous Big Trees hotel, which was saved by back-firing. An area of 10 miles square has been already burned over. Considerable heavy timber was burned. Hundreds of men under the forest rangers, are fighting the flames. A month ago the fires raged in the vicinity of the Big Trees for two weeks.

To Build Great Vessel.

New York, Sept. 2.—It is likely that the present month will witness the laying of the keel of the Florida, the biggest and most powerful of the vessels of Uncle Sam's navy. The 29,000-ton leviathan of the seas will be the monarch of the United States navy and the equal in fighting power and tonnage of any other ship afloat.

The contract to build the Florida was given to the local yard after one of the greatest campaigns was waged to force the navy department to let the workers of the Brooklyn navy yard build her. Board of trade, congressman, senators and every one that could exert authority with the Washington officials were fighting night and day to get the battleship built here.

The argument of the experts in Washington was that private builders could construct a warship or any other kind of vessel cheaper and quicker than government workers. At the time that all this was going on the collier Vestal was started at the navy yard. From Naval Constructor Baxton down to the humblest apprentice the feeling was rampant that the only thing to be done to have the ship built here was to show good results in the Vestal.

Now that the giant collier is finished and all records for quick and cheap construction are broken, the men at the navy yard are waiting with interest for the keel of the Florida to be laid. Although the building of a battleship is a greater task than the construction of a collier, the workers at the yard have no fear that that they will not make as good on the Vestal, for they have also built the battleship Connecticut, now the pride of the navy.

The new fighting monster is so much larger than the Connecticut that the ways on which the latter was built have to be lengthened a hundred feet. To do this, part of a storehouse will have to be razed, as there is not room for the extension of the ways on the landslide. After the building is razed and the ways lengthened, they will be undermined so that the railroad of the navy yard can pass beneath them.

Another interesting feature of the building of the new battleship is the fact that a new monster cantilever crane will be erected, so the steel and other material will be hauled to the workers nearly twice as fast as they were while the Vestal was being built. The crane is now in the course of construction and will be ready soon after the Florida is started.
