CAMPAIGN IN OHIO

Youngstown, O., Sept. 4.—Youngstown is today assuming its gayest attire in honor of the republican hosts now gathering for the opening meeting of the campaign in this city tomorrow. Although advertised as a state rally, tomorrow's event will practically mark the beginning of the campaign for the whole country, and the speeches to be delivered by Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York, Governor Andrew L. Harris of Ohio, and Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, have been prepared with that fact in view.

Arthur I. Vorys, manager of the movement which culminated in William H. Taft's selection as the republican standard bearer, will preside at tomorrow's exercises. Invitations have been extended to the United States senators of the Buckeye state, Joseph B. Foraker and Charles Dick, but they have not been asked to speak. Owing to his decision to make his entire campaign in Cincinnati, Mr. Taft has persistently refused to be present at the campaign opening. In his absence, Governor Hughes will likely be the popular hero of the day and his address, which will deal with national issues, is waited with intense interest.

The selection of Mr. Hughes to deliver the opening speech of the campaign in an emphatic answer by the managers of the national campaign to the complaints of New York leaders that the governor is not a regular party man.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Governor Harris, aside from Governor Hughes, will be the only speakers at the Youngstown meeting. The Taft men do not look for any unpleasantness at the meeting because of the elimination of Senator Foraker from the list of speakers, but the situation may get away from them if the senator is present.

Besides representatives from all of the counties in the state, there will be delegations from Illinois, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana.

Republican leaders here today declare that Ohio will give the republican national ticket a majority of not less than 100,000, and assert that with the possible exception of the vote cast for Roosevelt, it will be a record-breaker.

Jackson Lewis of Elgin, transacted business at the land offices of the city this morning.
