MILL RUNNING

Imbler, Sept. 9.—(Special.)—The new flouring mill is now settled down to its season run. The machinery was started Monday, and has run smoothly and perfectly since then—day shifts alone being adopted. A little later the wheel will turn night and day, but at present the manager finds it expedient to run but one shift. The elevator is filled with grain, for wheat has been piling up here for several weeks. The output of the mill is considerably increased since the change in management, and the freight shipments out of this place, which already run into large figures, will be materially increased this year.

Our judgment of other people's mistakes, is apt to be more severe than our judgment of our own.

One 12,000-pound boiler.
One 12,000-pound boiler.
One 12,000-pound boiler and compressor.

Think it over. Then give us the order for coal. Do it soon, too. Even a little chill may mean a big bill—for the doctor.
