BARLEY AND OATS MOVING

THREE CLASSES OF GRAIN MOVING NICELY.

Imbler Installs Ninth Grade—100 Attend Excursion—Export Flour Being Manufactured—Elevator Company Shipping Out Wheat Today.

Imbler, Sept. 21.—(Special.)—The Pacific Elevator company is shipping wheat today in large quantities. Their warehouse has been filling up for several weeks and the shipments today mean large blocks of money put into circulation.

Oats and Barley Moving.

With the beginning of the new week comes a general movement of wheat and the elevators are rapidly filling up. Oats and barley is being brought in in large quantities today for the first time, and this, added to the wheat movement, there is general prosperity everywhere among the farmers. The prices will be good this eyar for all classes of small grain, and the Imbler region is one of the most favored spots in the valley in the amount of grain raised.

Install Ninth Grade.

For the first time in history, Imbler schools are teaching the ninth grade. Prof. O. C. Maxwell is in charge of the schools. There are 100 students registered, and three teachers to instruct them.

Other News Items.

The O. R. & N. sold out all its tickets for the Wallowa excursion yesterday—100 in number. If the agent had been supplied with more he would have disposed of them.

O. C. Maxewll and wife spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Campbell.

The Willow Creek school opened today with Miss Irene Cringle in charge. She taught last year here.

Threshing is in full blast again after the short delay occasioned by the rains of last week.

T. T. Clenn, the pioneer rancher of this district, was one of those who went to Wallowa yesterday.

Export flour is now being produced by the Imbler mill in large quantities.

WHEREIN OSTEOPATHY IS ORIGINAL.

It is not the claim of Andrew Taylor Still, M. D., the founder of osteopathic medicine, nor of his followers, that the basic facts and principles upon which the news system rests are essentially new discoveries, but only that their application is new. This claim cannot be contradicted. Osteopathy, as a science and practice both, is absolutely original, and is not to be confused with other systems of practice, nor with such adjuvants to medicine as massage, Swedish movements, medical gymnastics, etc., with which it has no connection or essential likeness whatsoever. Other schools of medicine accept all the isolated facts and principles of anatommy, physiology and pathology out of which the new science of osteopathy has been constructed. But no other medical teacher before Dr. Still ever wrought these facts and principles into a consistent, homogenous system which is able, not only to overcome much sickness and deformity without the use of drugs and knife, but indeed to cure in a large share of cases much more successfully than can be accomplished by old-time methods.—Osteopathic Health.
