Paint in the Fall

THE WEATHER is more settled then.

There is less dust, less heat, not so many rainy, cloudy days and the flies, bugs, etc., are gone.

THE LUMBER is drier after the summer's heat than after a winter's dampness.

The paint will take better hold of the wood and dry hard and smooth.

THE PAINTER is not so busy as during the "Spring rush," and can give the work better attention and allow more time for each coat to dry and harden.

THE PAINT is the essential feature at any time of the year and should be carefully considered. "Hand Made" mixtures or cheap products are a waste of time and money.

THE PROTECTION is the primary object of painting and in the winter your house needs protection the most. "High Standard" paint not only gives the best but the longest protection of all paints.

Don't do any guessing—just insist on "High Standard" Paint—and there will be no regrets.

There are "Little Blue Flag" Paints and Varnishes for your house, barn, wagons, carriages, floors and wood-work. Let us explain to you.

THE LUMBER FORESTERS TRAFFIC GOOD HOLD BUNFEST

MARK AUTHOR'S GRAVE.

Author of "Bridge of the Gods" is Given Simple Honors.

F. H. Balch, author of "The Bridge of the Gods," no longer lies in an unmarked grave at Lyle, Wash.

A rough gray granite slab, brought from the hills of Lyle, was chiseled by L. Comini, a marble cutter of The Dalles, Saturday, and placed at Balch's grave, in the little country cemetery three miles from Lyle. The work was done under the direction of the Historical society of The Dalles.

A large assemblage of friends of the poet-preacher, Balch, from The Dalles, Lyle, Hood River and White Salmon met at the little school house near Lyle Saturday morning to honor the memory of the man, who wrote the "Bridge of the Gods," and witness the ceremonies at his unmarked grave. There was a large number of school children present to participate in the exercises. The school house in which the people met was built for a church in 1889 by F. P. Balch, who, as a Congregational minister, preached to his flock from the pulpit in that building. A tablet, bearing the inscription stating who caused the building to be erected, will be placed on the house so that those attending school there hereafter may know who its builder was.

Quaker City Celebration.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—All over the city today carpenters and decorators are busily at work "dressing" the Quaker City in the gladdest, gayest raiment it has ever worn. The somber garb of its Quaker origin has been cast aside and within a few days the aforesaid staid old city will be clad in giddy and flamboyant colors. Philadelphia has long chafed under the insistently repeated accusation that it is "slow," and next week will fling back the libel into the teeth of its accusers by holding the greatest historical pageant in the history of American municipalities. The festival will celebrate the 225th anniversary of the founding of the City of Brotherly Love, and will be carried out on so large a scale as to make all previous celebrations of the kind look like mere side shows.

A "heap big bunfest" is in store for members of the Foresters tomorrow night, when the regular meeting takes place and several new candidates will be initiated into the mysteries of the order. The lodge has recently taken in 30 members, and with the number that are going in tonight, the new roll will touch the 40 mark. The spread tomorrow night is said to be something great and no member can afford to miss the opportunity to pulling down a "samhandwich" and a mug of coffee. The officers of the lodge want everybody out.

"Freegrab" Not Freewater.

Freewater, Sept. 28.—Freewater's present name may pass into desuetude and this town henceforth be known as "Freegrab."

The threatened change in name is precipitated by a sign placed upon the front of the home of a nearby rancher. The sign says:

"If thou are poor and hungry, come in here. Meals are free."

The rancher is William Saager, a prominent and wealthy member of this community who plans in this way to make return through charity for his success in farming here.

All prospects seem to indicate that Mr. Saager will have plenty of patronage.

Railway Commissioners.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Preparations have been completed for the session here next week of the National Association of Railway Commissioners, when important traffic matters will be considered. Among the subjects to be reported on are rates and rate-making, legislation, railroad taxes, valuation of railroad property, car distribution and car shortage. Electric railway construction and operation will also be considered.

Notice for Bids.

How to Get Strong.

P. J. Daley, of 1247 W. Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to become strong. He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it is my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters cures stomach, liver and kidney complaints.
