While Mr. Sherwood leaves the picture business he does not leave La Grande, except for a time. He has purchased an undivided half interest in the Parr-Logan firm and hereafter that combination of business men will be known as the Logan-Sherwood Realty company. Mr. Sherwood has a firm belief in the future of La Grande, he will become one of the live, active boosters. He has not entered a new field to him, for he has spent two years with the Guarantee Trust & Title company of Baltimore, and the new firm will have in it another experienced man in realty.

HEAR TAFT'S VOICE TONIGHT

William H. Taft, candidate for the presidency on the republican ticket, will speak tonight in the old Elks' hall. The occasion for this is a meeting of the Taft-Sherman club, and Taft political records will be reproduced from a phonograph.

President Ivanhoe has called the meeting for tonight and much interest centers in the meeting. This is the first session in two weeks, and the members of the club should be out. There are many Taft records in the city and they will all be reproduced tonight for the benefit of those who attend the meeting. It is highly important that republicans attend, as many things of interest to them will transpire.

HAWLEY ON THE STUMP.

Oregon Representative in Indiana to Further Taft's Cause.

While the eastbound train yesterday evening was taking on passengers and baggage for 20 minutes, Representative W. C. Hawley, of the First district, chatted pleasantly with a Tribune representative, who for many years was his near neighbor and intimate personal friend in Salem. It was first thought that he had come to attend the local fair as one of the speakers, since he had been invited to be present in such capacity, but the fact was he had started to Indiana, where he will take the stump for Taft and several of his congressional colleagues.

Mr. Hawley will begin his campaign in Princeton, Ind., next Monday, and after two weeks in that state will go into Wisconsin and Iowa. He says he can assist many of his colleagues who are "in a tight place," and incidentally do Taft some good, he hopes. He says he expects, or wants to get about a half million dollars out of the national treasury during the next two years, and that it requires friends among the members to get appropriation bills through.—Pendleton Tribune.

SHERWOOD SHOW CLOSES

MANAGER ENTERS LOCAL REALTY FIRM.

Sherwood Electric Theater Will Give Its Last Performances Tonight—Manager Retires Due to Fact That Straight Moving Pictures No Longer Suit the Patrons—His Firm to Establish Branch Houses—Expresses Appreciation.

A new firm has been formed in this city and one business place will be dark after tonight. The Sherwood Electric theater, the pioneer playhouse of the city, will give its last set of performances this evening, when the three usual programs will be presented. After the last performance, the "curtain" will ring down and B. M. Sherwood leaves the picture film business for the field of real estate.

He has a good program and he will present it with the care and skill that has characterized his work during his stay in La Grande. His many patrons are grieved to see him leave the show business, but, as he states it, conditions are now such in La Grande that the straight and exclusive moving picture business has been overshadowed by attempts at the vaudeville and special attractions, until it became necessary for him to follow the example of his competitors. This he feels he could not do with any degree of profit, and rather than conduct a business that was mediocre and not inclusive of as many special features as those given by his competitors, he leaves the business entirely on the strength of his firm conviction that the city will not patronize profitably three vaudeville and special feature houses. He leaves the business with regret, and he has formed many friends in his line of work during a year's stay in La Grande, because of his constant attempt and success in presenting clean, attractive and interesting moving pictures. "I leave a good patronage and hope that I will see my old friends in my new business," said Mr. Sherwood this morning. "I wish to publicly express my appreciation of the patronage given me here and only wish that conditions were such that I could remain in the business longer."
