FAILED TO LIFT CURTAIN

The Christ Stock company will not show again in this city, notwithstanding that their contract called for a full week's stand. The Steward was dark last night, and it will not be lighted again for the company now here.

The troupe will likely remain in the city until Sunday at which time they go back over the route they have just completed. Their advance man is now working back to Portland setting dates, and regardless of the fact that they have recently showed there, they are promised full houses if they come back. The reason they did not show last night was because the door receipts totaled less than $5. The troupe and its management have exhibited remarkable patience in showing to small houses earlier in the week, and their action in not raising the curtain last night is excusable.

THE HOLY CITY COMING HERE

There is not a theater in New York that advertises a Salome dance, that is not packed to the doors nightly.

The craze, and it may be justly called a craze, started with the announcement of the coming of Maude Allen from England to America to dance her Salome dance, made famous by the approval of King Edward and royalty. Miss Gertrude Hoffman, an American actress, anticipated Miss Allen's coming and early in the summer heard men and women on the streets, in the hotels and at the theaters discussing the merits and demerits of his or her favorite Salome dance.

The announcement that the Holy City is to play Friday, October 9, in this city, should have a double drawing power. Not only have the theater patrons an opportunity to see one of the most absorbing and dramatic offerings of the season, played by a peerless dramatic organization, but mer offered at Hammerstein's Victoria theater her "Vision of Salome." Her efforts were rewarded with crowded houses. Then Miss Eva Tanguay produced at the Alhambra theater, a dance called "The Remorse of Salome," and caught the town. Then Miss Lotta Faust at the Casino danced herself into prominence and reaped her predecessors' rewards. Criticism ran high as to who was the most effective. It was a common thing to they will have the undeniable opportunity to witness the acclaimed peer of all New York's now famous Salome dances. Even the most conservative theatergoer cannot afford to miss this dramatic treat on Friday evening. You will cry, you will be thrilled and you will rejoice when you are leaving the theater, you will say to yourself, Well, I have put in two and one-half hours of the most absorbing and interesting time of my life."

FRUIT COMING IN.

Exhibit Hall Filling Up With Splendid Array of Displays.

The exhibit hall at the depot is gradually being filled with the best of the land and the passing travelers seldom fail to grasp the opportunity of feasting their eyes on the sights to behold on the shelves of the hall. The variety of fruit is growing gradually and the grades held at the highest. The apple display is exceptionally fine. More fruit will be brought in tomorrow say the managers of the hall, and at that time, the apple exhibit will be fairly well completed.

Kaiser's Balloon Race. Berlin, Oct. 2.—Nearly a score of great gas bags are now being given final tests preliminary to the international balloon races, to start from Berlin nine days hence, under the personal patronage of Kaiser Wilhelm. The only American-made balloon here is the Conqueror, which will be piloted by A. Holland Forbes, assisted by Augustus Post. The efforts of the balloonists will be to pilot their gas bags toward Russia, in order to prevent being swept out over the Atlantic. If last year's record is reached, the successful air navigator will probably land in frozen Siberia, and may have much trouble in getting back to civilization.

"Dry" Hotel Falls. New York, Oct. 2.—That no big metropolitan hotel can be run at a profit, or even pay expenses, without a liquor license, is the declaration of the managers of the Hotel Gotham, which will be sold at auction under foreclosure of judgment on October 13. The big 21-story hostelry is among the finest in New York, but has been a financial failure from the first, its nearness to the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church preventing the hotel managers from securing a liquor license. Managers of other big hotels point to the Gotham as an object lesson and declare that if the metropolis should ever become "dry," the hotels would be forced to nearly double their rates in order to make a profit.
