EVELYN FRANCES KELLOG.
Charming Prima Donna With the San Francisco Opera Company.

The opening performance of the San Francisco Opera company at the Steward opera house next Wednesday night will introduce Miss Frances Kellog, in the title role of "Fantana." On Thursday night she plays a romping boy part similar to Jack Horner. She is Peter, foreman of the workshop, in "The Toy maker."

For the past five years Miss Kellog has won much distinction, and an endearing place in the affection of opera loving people, as leading soprano in the forces of Henry W. Savage, Nixon and Zimmerman, Aborn Production Co., and other prominent New York managers. Last season she was specially featured in "The Gingerbread Man," and created the role of "Jack Horner." She is a winsome sprightly and captivating young woman, blessed with a beautiful soprano voice, a distinct and charming versatility, and a keen apprehension of the true elements of acting. Her decided musical ability, her pretty face lit up by a pair of lovely intelligent eyes, and a most fascinating smile, together with a decidedly prepossessing figure, eminently fit her for the exacting position of leading lady with the San Francisco Opera company.

Throughout the country she is more than admired, she is beloved by her auditors and has yet to receive her first adverse criticism.

FIGHT ON STREET.

Blood Spilled and Threats Made, But Otherwise Not Serious.

A lively fist fight occurred on Depot street last evening between 8 and 9 o'clock, between the Paul cigar store and the adjoining pool room. Some blood was spilled and rumors of shooting have been rampant today. The slight evidence of war is not indicative of loss of life for the fracas never assumed a serious aspect except to the fellow who was whipped. It is said by eye witnesses that ugly threats were made, but as yet nothing has come of it. Two firemen were the principal characters in the affair.

APPEAL IS PERFECTED.

Appeal of Roesch Injunction Suit is Actually Made Today.

The final details in connection with appealing the test case from Union county to ascertain the validity of the local option law, have been completed today. Returns of service on members of the county board were made this morning and notice of appeal has been made. Until the decision is forthcoming, Union county will be in a state of extreme apprehension.

DELICATESSEN GALORE.

La Grande Merchants Displaying the Best Line of Edibles Yet.

A trip through the downtown section will convince the most skeptical that La Grande merchants have never before had such an abundance of good things for the inner man, and the Christmas dinner in La Grande will be out of the ordinary. The grocers have taken pains to be well stocked as have also the butchers and bakers.
A unique display is that of the Adams avenue market of the Grande Ronde Meat company. A large frame work has been installed upon which are hung the different kinds of poultry, overhead, and along the sides.

The different grocers have received a large amount of fruits and nuts to augment their stocks of staples, and everywhere there are signs of abundant. Verily, this is a land of plenty, and the La Grande merchant is alive to his opportunities.
