Young Man at Canyon City Commits Suicide on Christmas.

Canyon City, Dec. 29.—R. A. Cohoe, 24 years of age, son of D. C. Cohoe, a prominent man in northern Grant county, was found on the streets of Canyon City Christmas evening in the last agonies of death, the result of a dose of strychnine taken with suicidal intent. Medical assistance was summoned, but death resulted almost immediately. Despondency and imaginary troubles prompted the act.

Cohoe arrived in Canyon City the day before Christmas from Harney county, where he had been at work on a stock ranch. He was en route to his home at Hamilton. Christmas day, drinking with some friends, he intimated that he had planned to take his life. In the evening he procured the strychnine at the drug store. He then went directly to the hotel, and calling for Theresa Mulcare, a waitress, asked for a glass of water.

Pouring the strychnine into the glass he drank it, requesting her to phone to his people to come with a coffin. Ten minutes later he was heard on one of the back streets calling for assistance. Before help reached him he was taken with convulsions, expiring in a few minutes.
