TRAINS ARE OFTEN LATE

The wrecker was sent out from La Grande about 9:30 last evening to repair a truck of a coach in No. 5, the westbound, at Hilgard. The wreck was not serious. The chief trouble was the delay occasioned, No. 2 due here at 8:30, arriving shortly after 11.

Late Again Today. On account of the severe snowstorms in the mountains, and deep snow along the O. R. & N. line, which impeded progress of the heavy train, No. 6 this morning, eastbound, did not arrive until nearly noon today.

Joseph Train on Time.

The Joseph train seldom waits for No. 6 even if the latter is only a few hours late, and the rule was no exception this morning. Contrary to first impressions, the Joseph train is running close to schedule during the winter months.

OPEN TOWN ON THE SNAKE

Baker City, Jan. 6.—The stories brought in from Copperfield, the town on Snake river, by persons arriving from there, sound like the tales of many another new railroad and mining town in the heyday of their meteoric career.

It is related that it is a wide-open town. Hundreds of laborers on the Northwest railway and Oxbow construction make it their headquarters, especially when they get their time check and take a lay off. Then there is something doing. All the booze necessary can be had and that is about all they want. The shrewd "sport" is there also, ready and capable of separating the laborer from his coin and it is done in the most scientific way.

The gay siren is also on the ground, too, with all her gay fluffies and cosmetic beauty.

All in all, so report has it, Copperfield is the kingpin of all the northwest towns. It is the quintessence of all that is foul and immoral, the place is setting a pace as hot as those of the infernal regions whence comes the metal for which the town has been appropriately named.

Historians Meet. Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 7.—Many prominent Pennsylvanians interested in historical research are in attendance at the session opened here today by the State Federation of Historical societies.
