"SHORE ACRES" IS THE NEXT ATTRACTION

"Shore Acres," Whittier, the poet, had his place in New England life; James A. Herne, the author of "Shore Acres," has not only depicted New England life, but he has brought forth the realization of country life in a most forceful and entertaining manner in his great rural drama, "Shore Acres." In this respect Herne has his place in history.

fire was not discovered until after it had made good headway and although confined almost entirely to the hallway and ante-rooms of the armory proper, the loss by water was very heavy. Fendleton East Oregonian.

the same as Whittier. "Shore Acres" will be seen in this city at the Steward Wednesday, January 27.

The character of Nathaniel Perry is again being played by Archie Boyd, recognized as the greatest impersonator of rural characters that the country has ever known. Mr. Herne played this character for many years and when having two companies on the road, he selected Mr. Boyd to play the character in the new company. Mr. Herne believed that Mr. Boyd played the part as well as he played it himself. Mr. Herne's youngest daughter, Dorothy, is associated with Mr. Boyd, she playing the part of the heroine.

Fire in Fendleton Yesterday.
A fire loss of about $2000 occurred this morning at 2:30 o'clock in a mysterious blaze in the hall of the Armory building on Court street. The

CLIFFORDS HAVE COME

The Cliffords—trunk mystifiers—in the city. By resorting to wagon and other stage coach-like modes of travelling, the actors reached the city this morning and are ready to make their appearance at the Pastime theater tonight. The team is credited to be the best on the coast with trunk and lock stunts. Manager Eccles declares it will be the best drawing team he has been able to book for several months. Patrons should come to the theater tonight prepared to see something good. Handcuffs of any description can be used by the actors. The trunk mystery scene is a marvel, say those who have seen it. The entire program at the Pastime changes this evening.

Clifford and Clifford, the noted European mystifiers, presenting their famous Australian Trunk Mystery and other sensational features, make their first appearance at the Pastime tonight and will surprise and delight you beyond measure with their clever performances. They are exceptionally clever in their line and will mystify you completely in their marvelous escapes when seemingly securely fastened. You are most cordially invited to bring your own chains, locks, handcuffs, boxes, trunks, etc., and satisfy yourself as to their being securely fastened and their escape from such fastenings will be made in a remarkably short time; they hold the world's record for escaping from a locked and well roped trunk, while manacled and tied in a sack, in the almost unbelievable time of one second. This startling feature will be presented tonight. Their famous Chinese Yoke of Torture, in which Madame Clifford is securely fastened and escapes from, will be in front of the theater all day for your inspection. You are invited to examine it most critically at your pleasure. This is the one big feature act and your first opportunity of seeing such clever people in La Grande.

LA GRANDE WITH THE BEST

Rare indeed, in the opportunity coming to our city on Friday night of next week. Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles have gone into ecstacy over Russel H. Conwell. Each regarded his visit an epoch making event in the city's life. Each vied with the other to do him honor. Dr. Brughner, realizing from past experience, that our city appreciates and is entitled to the best, turned Conwell over our way and opened to us this opportunity. The personality and presence of such men, at a time when Ice Jam Broken.

The Dalles, Jan. 21.—Several citizens went to Celilo today to see the ice jam that formed there yesterday. On arriving there, however, they were informed that they were "a day late," because during the night the jam at the falls went out, carrying with it portions of the walk leading to one of the Taffe fishery buildings.

The Dance Monday Night.
A nine-piece orchestra will play for the dance at the Elks' auditorium Monday evening. At this dance, as well as

LYNDON IN COON ACT

"The Colored Lady From Dixie" is the headliner in the vaudeville attraction at the Scenic tonight. Mr. Lyndon, of Lyndon & Wren, will do the colored lady act and press notices where he has shown the little sketch, say he is extremely clever in that class of acting. He has a strong team-mate in Mrs. Wren. For the first time this week Clever Clarke will change his act tonight. He has saved his best for the week-end and this, added to the Lyndon & Wren performance will give the Scenic two excellent numbers. Clarke is a marvel on the slack wire, but what he has shown heretofore has been good, but tonight he assures even better attractions. The moving pictures are new tonight, the feature film being "The Bride of Lammermoor." This film is prettily colored.

A New Game.
"Oh, papa, we have a new game. We are playing baby in a bank, and we've put in 75 cents already."

DENTIST

YOUR Teeth are vitally important to you. Are you neglecting them? If it has been a matter of cost which has caused you to put off visiting the Dentist, that excuse no longer exists.

Bridge work requires skill and judgement, but the cost should not be prohibitive. Call at my office and have your teeth examined and receive an estimate. It may be that timely attention may save you many dollars.

The La Grande Dental Parlors are not in any combination to control prices. All work has my personal guarantee and 16 years practical experience is at your disposal.
