ELECTRIC LINE TALK

Pendleton, Feb. 5.—Late last night information was secured to the effect that a surveying party had arrived in Pendleton for the purpose of making a preliminary survey of a proposed electric line between Pendleton and Walla Walla.

Wednesday night Mr. Mason, claiming to be the head of a surveying party, with three other men, made application at the Olcott boarding house on Johnson street for rooms for himself and the three others. He informed Mrs. Olcott that he would be in this vicinity for some time and that the men would start to work at once on the route for the trolley line.

Last night the Tribune representative endeavored to locate these men at one of the hotels, but failed to do so.

Other information at hand, however, is to the effect that this surveying party had been expected in Pendleton before the first of February, and that the work had now actually begun.

In a conversation over the long distance telephone last evening, Mr. E. S. Isaacs of Walla Walla, president of the Washington & Oregon Traction company, the company which holds the franchise in this city, said he knew nothing of the surveying party and he was not acquainted with Mr. Mason.

Mr. Isaacs also said that he had no statement to make public at present regarding the plans of the Washington & Oregon Traction company.

DENTIST

I came to the Grande Ronde Valley some months ago to give the people of this community the advantage of reliable dental work at reasonable prices and I have found that this determination has been appreciated. It is due every man that he get a reasonable recompense for his work and I base my practice on that principle. My patrons shall receive the same consideration that I should expect if I had occasion to employ a Dentist. Very Respectfully,
