THE SCIENCE PLAINLY OUTLINED

Osteopathy is that school of medical practice whose distinctive method consists in (1) a physical examination to determine the condition of the mechanism and function of all parts of the human body; (2) a specific manipulation to restore the normal mechanism and re-establish the normal functions; and (3) the adoption of all hygienic measures conducive to the restoration and maintenance of health. This definition lays stress upon the following points: (1) Correct diagnosis based upon a physical examination. The osteopath must know the normal and recognize any departure from it as a possible factor in disease. There is not one fact known to the anatomist or physiologist that may not be of vital importance to the osteopath. Hence a correct diagnosis based upon such knowledge is necessary. (2) Removal of the cause of disease. A deranged mechanism must be corrected by mechanical means specifically applied, which is the most natural and only direct method of procedure. This work is not done by any of the methods of other schools. After the mechanism has been corrected little remains to be done to restore function; but stimulation or inhibition of certain nerve centers may give temporary relief and aid nature. (3) Wholesome living, both in sickness and in health. All the means employed by other schools, including proper use of pure air, water, food, heat and cold, exercise and rest cleanliness and surgery, and public hygiene and sanitary science, are the common heritage of all schools, and especially in line with osteopathic theory and practice.

It will be seen that practically all of the above definitions lay stress upon diagnosis in the sense of determining the first cause, the causus causans, and the relations between it and the secondary causes which often determine the most noticeable symptoms.

This is a new principle in diagnosis, absolutely unlike any ever applied, except in occasional cases, by any other school of physicians. The definitions also provide for treatment in accordance with the diagnosis; hence the treatment suggested, except in occasional cases, is absolutely unlike any other that has ever been proposed.

It is not claimed that no one ever recognized an osteopathic principle or put it into practice before Dr. Still. History shows that many had grasped and applied principles essentially osteopathic long before osteopathy, or anything like it, as a complete system ever entered the human mind. But in almost every case where the principle was seen, its application was never dreamed of.

Men in all ages of the world had observed the force of steam, and many of them had seen it lift the kettle lid as often as Watt had; but only he thought of developing a machine which would enable him to use steam when ever power was wanted. So others knew much of anatomy, physiology, and pathology, but only Dr. Still thought of developing a system based upon that knowledge which would enable him to come with all disease to which the human body is heir.

There is probably no one thing more noticeable in medical literature today than the almost universal failure to recognize the osteopathic idea that diseased conditions are, or ever may be, due to derangement of form and consequent disturbance of function. Any change of size, texture, structure, position, relation, is a change of form, an anatomical derangement, a lesion in the osteopathic sense, a possible cause for disease. A failure of any part of the body to do its duty is a disturbance of function, generally caused by some derangement of form. These are essential osteopathic ideas, but they are almost completely ignored by the drug schools of practice; hence, the firm basis upon which osteopathy rests in contrast with those systems based on symptoms in both diagnosis and practice.—History of Osteopathy.

A STARTLING STATEMENT.

New York Medical Authorities Claim Dyspepsia Causes Consumption.

The post mortem statistics of the big New York hospitals show that some cases of consumption are due to unchecked dyspepsia, especially when the victim was predisposed to tuberculosis.

Dyspepsia wears out the body and brain, the weakened, irritable stomach is unable to digest food, the body does not receive the required nourishment, constipation ensues and the victim becomes thin, weak and haggard. As a result, the body becomes a fertile field for the germs of disease to lodge and flourish.

Therefore, the person who permits dyspepsia to progress unhindered is gully of contributing toward the development of one of the most insidious and fatal diseases known to mankind.

Dyspepsia is curable if properly treated. A. T. Hill sells a remedy which he positively guarantees will cure indigestion or dyspepsia or he will pay for all the medicine used during the trial. This remedy is an absolutely new medical discovery and has been named Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Certainly no offer could be more fair, and the offer of A. T. Hill is proof positive that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a dependable and infallible remedy. Inasmuch as the medicine will cost you nothing if it does not benefit you we urge you who are suffering with indigestion or dyspepsia to try this remedy. A twenty-five cent box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets contains enough medicine for fifteen days' treatment. Remember Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are only sold in La Grande by A. T. Hill, druggist.

TRIED TO KILL MOTHER.

Umatilla Indian Lodged in Jail on Charge.

John Mitchell, an Indian, was brought from the reservation and lodged in the city jail this morning, charged with an assault on his mother, which nearly resulted in her death, says the Pendleton East Oregonian.

Mitchell went home last night with too much firewater and when he arrived at the house proceeded to beat his mother. She was beaten badly about the head and suffered several other bruises.

Mitchell was arrested in town this morning and locked up for the time. Then the aged mother was brought to town and put in the hospital, where she lies in a half unconscious state. Agent McFarridge arrived in the city this afternoon to take charge of the case.

Died.

Imbler, March 2.—(Special).—Mrs. C. Curtis, aged 73, died this morning in this city at the home of her son, Eli Curtis. The remains will be taken to Cash Valley, Utah, for burial. The remains will be shipped this evening. The deceased has been a resident of this valley for the past year and has been in ill health for some time.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many mothers, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starcher, of Ripley, W. Va., says: "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children, and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotics and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale by all good dealers.

Near Death in Big Pond.

It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly caused my death. All remedies failed and doctors said I was incurable. Then Dr. King's New Discovery brought quick relief and a cure so permanent that I have not been troubled in 12 years." Mrs. Soper lives in Big Pond, Pa. It works wonders in coughs and colds, sore lungs, hemorrhages, la grippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Newlin Drug Co.
