"You are bound to get them. What could stand against the great West if it goes after them the whole way? Let the people demand it; let naval leagues be formed. If congressmen and senators from the west demand it they will get it."

Evans was greeted by committees from the Shriners and commercial organizations at the Tacoma hotel. He toured the city in an auto this afternoon and will speak in the Tacoma theater tonight, leaving tomorrow afternoon for Bellingham.

RELIC OF THE PAST

most of the territory between the Wallowa valley and Snake river, until his broken health would no longer permit him to face the hardships of mail carrier. While engaged in this business, covering all seasons of the year in a rigorous climate, he won the enviable record of being the oldest carrier in the mail service of the government, and never reported behind time. This typical of the unswerving fidelity of the man to the faithful performance of every duty in life.

For the past few years he was troubled with heart failure, and recently left the Wallowa valley with the hope a lower altitude would help him. He went to the home of his son Ira, at Dallas, this state, where he lingered until claimed by death. He leaves to mourn his loss, Thomas, a son; William and Jasper, two sons; Mrs. Christina Blue, a daughter; his son, Ira; Mrs. Liza Newell; Michael and Hamon, two sons; Lydia Rowley, a daughter; Fanchio, Newell and Brennan, the two younger sons. It was the dying wish of deceased that he be buried by the side of his wife, who preceded him several years, and the remains passed through La Grande this morning, en route to Enterprise for final interment.

His moral and physical development was all that nature, and the highest sense of personal honor could make it. He belonged to that old school of manhood, when every promise was kept and every duty performed. He was tender as he was strong, and simple as he was true—literally without deceit and without pretense. As a pioneer and frontiersman, he was thoughtful, tender and brave—a manly and courageous man.

EMERY'S ISOLATED

ifornia, despite strong unfavorable public opinion, is said today to be preparing to flee from the city and wed Gunjiro Aoki, the Jap.

"It is unchristian to object to a marriage because of a difference in race," said Mrs. Emery, the girl's mother. "Christianity teaches all souls are white."

Friends of Aoki are said to have offered him $1000 if he forsake his plan to marry the girl. The girl's father still remains away from the family home in Core Madera. Recently Mrs. Emery sent a message to her son Charles, asking him how he viewed the approaching nuptials. His answer was:

"Dear Mother: You know how I love a 'nigger'."

The Emerys are socially isolated since the announcement of the girl's engagement.
