NORTHWEST NEWS

If it hasn't been done, spray; there is yet time.

Several growing Oregon towns need fine new hotels.

Suckers are running in streams around Bonanza.

Newport frogs have held their annual spring mass meeting.

Madras has a slogan: "Every citizen a booster." Good one anywhere.

Monmouth needs a harness shop and meat market, says a correspondent.

It comes high, but pavement is the thing, remarks the Albany Democrat.

Boring for oil and digging for coal also in Jackson county, near Medford.

The park on top of Skinner's Butte, near Eugene, will yearly become a more valuable asset of that rapidly growing city.

A runaway horse attached to a cart at Stayton, created quite an excitement and made many people hold their breath, says the Mail.

Correspondence Dallas Observer: Signs of prosperity are very evident in and around Black Rock and every man who wants work now has it.

The mills and camps are all running full-handed and logs and lumber are being sent out by the trainload.

The dry bones in Elk City are being stirred and a new business spirit pervades the whole community, says the Newport Signal.

The justice is ordering a supply of warranty deeds and says: "Real estate is moving in this vicinity."

The people of Burns can well be proud of their Commercial club and the splendid work it is doing in bringing Harney county favorably before the world, says the News.

Another grand thing it is doing is the uniting of all the local forces for the general good of the community and the eliminating of all jealousies and petty malice.

Most cats abhor water, except to drink, but a little Prineville girl, says the Review, has a little white tomcat that likes water, luxuriates in it.

When the time comes for his bath, he jumps into the bucket of warm water, keeping his forefoot on the rim and purrs delightedly while his little mistress lathers him from head to foot with soap and warm water.

Sage rats made their appearance March 1, says the Prineville Review. They are a fearful menace to grain crops and grangers expend several hundred dollars annually for poison to keep down the increase, but they are very prolific.

The sage rat allows himself five growing months to secure provender for the remaining seven of the year, and on the 1st of August every last one of him disappears into his underground palace to enjoy a life of ease and sage rat luxury.
