GRAND JURY STRIKES PENDLETON LIQUOR MEN

Eight indictments for illegal liquor selling, two each against four men, were brought in unexpectedly by the grand jury late yesterday afternoon. Ole Olson, proprietor of the Queen chop house, together with his cook Albert Dendauw, were the only Pendleton men indicted, the others being Grant and Redfield, the proprietors of the Athena near beer saloon, says the East Oregonian.

Oleson and Dendauw were two of the most surprised men in the city when they were served with their warrants of arrest by Deputy Sheriff Bert Wilson last evening. They were taken to the court house where their bonds were fixed at $500. Oleson had no trouble in securing this amount but his cook was less fortunate. Abbig finally coming to his rescue at 11 o'clock last night, so the fellow was not compelled to spend the night in jail.

Attorney J. P. Winter appeared this morning at 9 o'clock for the accused men and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of selling liquor in violation of the local option law. He also filed a demurrer to the indictment on the ground that the law had been repealed by the legislature. The demurrer was overruled.

Mr. Winter said he would probably enter pleas to the charges of selling liquor to a minor, tomorrow morning. Oleson and Dendauw are jointly charged with having sold liquor in violation of the local option law to a nephew of County Judge Gilliland who is the boy who is alleged to have purchased the liquor, while Raymond Walker, son of County Commissioner Walker is the witness. February 15 of this year is the date of the alleged sale.

The Athena men had not been arrested at noon today and it was feared at that time that they had skipped the country. An effort will be made to apprehend and arrest them this afternoon. It is not believed that the grand jury has completed its investigation of the local option violation cases and still other indictments are expected.
