SOME OBJECT TO NEW LAW

In the natural course of events the ordinance making it compulsory for the owners of near-beer joints to leave an unobstructed view of the interior of their places, will come up in the council meeting next Wednesday night. There is said to be some antagonism among the council regarding some of the provisions of the ordinance as it now stands, and if true it is probable that certain sections will be amended before the majority of the council will consent to vote for its passage. The principal opposition seems to be directed against the section which provides for Sunday closing.
