PARADE WILL BE A DANDY

W. R. Jones and his assistants have been doing a lot of work since they were appointed to arrange for the parade on the Fourth. Instead of floats representing the different states, it has been decided that more variety and opportunity for a beautiful display will be afforded by having the floats represent the nations. To that end Mrs. Fred Schilke has been made chairman of the committee to get up a "carnival of nations," with Mesdames O. E. Silverthorn, F. E. Moore, W. L. Brenholts, T. J. Scroggin, J. Van Buren, E. Polack, George Palmer, E. E. Bragg, E. L. Eckley, N. Molitor, L. Dunn and Miss Margaret Anson as her assistants. Each of these will have charge of one of the floats, and it goes without saying that no feature of the entire parade will receive more attention or will be as beautiful as this. The order of the parade is practically decided upon, and will be as follows: First will come the "Carnival of Nations," led by the float representing the United States, then the business house floats probably followed by "Senator" Allison's brigade and the automobiles. While this order is now in the minds of Mr. Jones' committee as the one that will be followed, yet it may be said to be tentative, and can be changed.

The Japanese and Chinese of the county will contribute to the "carnival of nations." About a dozen business houses have already signified their intention of having floats in the parade, and it will be remembered that some very clever one were shown last year. Decorated automobiles will form no inconsiderable part of the parade. The safety of their drivers will be assured by the enforcement of the same rigid regulations regarding the explosion of fireworks as prevailed during the parade last year.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Moore have rented their fine residence on Fourth street to Mrs. Barry, and will move to Portland for a year. They expect to leave Monday night.
