PEDDLERS BUY LICENSES

Does Recorder Cox look like easy money? Evidently all the itinerant peddlers who come through La Grande think so, for every one of them tries to get him down on the price of licenses to peddle. If a fellow plans to spend more than one day in the city, or if there are two or more together, there is always an effort to get reduced rates, or quantity prices, so to speak. This morning two brothers named Daniel, giving their nationality as Caucasian and their home address as Baku, on the shore of the Caspian sea, drifted into the office and after disclaiming any intention of acting "like a Jew," as the older one said, did their best to convince Mr. Cox that he should take $10.00 for two licenses to run a week. The younger of the two added as a further reason the fact that they are brothers and so entitled to peddle under authority of one license. Finally they took out a license for one day for the older man and left, saying that they would not attempt to cheat the city by both peddling. About that time Officer Black came along and Mr. Cox stepped out the door to notify him to watch the street merchants. Evidently concluding that discretion beats paying fines the younger brother came to the office and secured a permit for himself.

We are not used to advertising traveling peddlers, but if the housewives of La Grande wish to buy cheap fancy work at three times its worth, they have an opportunity to do so while these men are in town.

TO CONFER WITH ECCLES

F. S. Bramwell left this morning for Baker City where he will meet and confer with David Eccles in regard to the extension of the Sumpter Valley railroad farther into Grant county. A plan is on foot to extend the line so that it will tap the lumber and mining districts of Prarie City and John Day country. This country is rich in her natural resources and a railroad there will go far in the development of Eastern Oregon.
