Hon. S. F. Richardson touched a vital truth when speaking from the farmers standpoint, wherein he realized that this Commercial club was doing some very effective work and that the greater portion would result in the immediate benefit of the farmer and that the farmer should realize this and respond at all times when called upon by the club, when it was within their power.

Some of us think that real estate is high in the Grande Ronde valley, but a comparison of values elsewhere shows that our lands are just about one half their true value, and the next five years not a few will be reciting the fact that had they foreseen conditions as "they now are" they would have doubled their money. It has always been thus. It is gratifying to note, however, that the highest prices paid for land in this county has been from the sales made to our own people, who realize what the future has in store and not from so-called "tenderfeet."

G. A. Carlock, district agent for the New York Life, went to Elgin today on business matters.

J. W. Oliver, the Oregon Fire Insurance representative, is one of the busy men in the city. His business called him to Sammeville today and he will return tomorrow afternoon.
