FULTON ANNIVERSARY.

Today is the 102nd anniversary of that memorable date, Monday, August 17, 1807, when mocking cheers and cries of derision from the assembled mob rent the air as Robert Fulton boarded his first crude steamboat and set forth up the Hudson.

A replica of the little steamboat in which Fulton made his first trip has been completed and will be prominently displayed during the Hudson-Fulton celebration, which begins in New York on September 25 next.

EXPOSITION NOTES.

SEATTLE, Aug. 17.—(Special)—The St. Olaf (Minnesota) college band, composed of boys ranging from 14 to 21 years, which comes to the exposition August 22, has a leader who weighs 318 pounds.

Annie Besant, theosophist, who lectures at the A-Y-P, August 22, declares that Christ is soon coming to earth again in the specially fitted body of a western person, possibly a woman, but more likely a man.

With the exposition half over Sunday night, the attendance to date was 1,745,260.

John Phillip Sousa says that the Mormon Tabernacle choir, which comes to the A-Y-P, August 26, is the most wonderful body of trained male voices in the United States.

A rainbow trout about 14 inches long in the fish exhibit in the government building at the exposition last week swallowed a seven inch mountain trout. It was 18 hours before the tail of the small fish disappeared.

There are 10,640 seats for weary sightseers scattered over the grounds of the exposition.
