Fishermen have had no trouble this season in securing an abundance of bait as the grasshoppers in all sections of the mountains are reported to be more in evidence than for several years.

Our poultry growers will surprise the thousands who visit our fair with their display. There are few counties in the state where as many fine fowls are grown as in Union and quite a number are already preparing their coops for exhibit.

What may happen remains to be seen. It is evident for the present that Secretary Ballinger will not remove Chief Forester Pinchot for some time yet. President Taft is too shrewd a politician to permit anything like this.

Between sentences, while discussing our soon-to-be, pure water supply and the wonders that our irrigation project is going to do for this immediate vicinity, just slip in a good word for the Union county exposition. It is boosting everything good that helps a country.

Francis J. Heney made a great showing. His name was not on the official ballot, and had to be written in the blank by each voter, and while the campaign was on Heney was out of the state, in Alaska and Oregon. With the wealth arrayed against him, it shows plainly that the majority of the people of San Francisco are with Heney on his graft prosecution.

When we get our gravity water system in there will be demand for a lowering of the rate during the irrigation season. The present rate of 25 cents per thousand gallons of water for irrigating the lawns which adds so much to the beauty of our city is entirely too high. It always has been too high. It does not cost to exceed 7 cents per thousand gallons to pump it and we do not believe that for this purpose the city should exact 400 per cent. House rates of 25 cents per thousand gallons does not matter much as there are few houses that exceed the minimum rate for domestic purposes, but during the irrigation season the rate should be lowered, and when the gravity system is in the demand will doubtless be so great that this will be done.

The Union county exposition is meeting with gratifying support generally. At first it was maintained that stockmen would not bring their show stuff to the city. Those who had given this matter much thought and had investigated what was being accomplished in other places, knew this seeming prejudice would soon disappear, but were somewhat doubtful about the first season. However as soon as the stockmen became acquainted with the accommodations that are being made for the protection and housing of their stock, they make no objection, and are pleased to know that they will have the opportunity of showing the stock to thousands of people who heretofore never knew that we had a stock exhibition at our fairs. Their location being off to one side many did not take the trouble to visit that section. The people generally throughout the county are beginning to catch the spirit of enthusiasm as is being manifest by the people of this city. After years of making good La Grande has at last earned the reputation of doing things right in public undertakings and when the people of the county ascertain the city of La Grande is behind this fair movement, they will do their part.
