On a land area of about 325 square miles New York City handles half of the foreign commerce of the United States.

Medford has shipped sixty car loads of pears during the past two weeks, the first car on the Chicago market brought $3.25 per box.

Small white beans are quoted in the Portland market at 7 cents per pound, the grower fortunate enough to have a crop this year will soon be throwing dust at his less unfortunate neighbor with his auto.

It is often a long lane that has no turn, the other day after being victorious in numerous collisions with all kinds of vehicles a New York City street car, met its Waterloo by tackling a steam road roller.

Few people realize to what extent the gasoline engine has become a factor in our commercial life. Gasoline provides the motive power for many enterprises that could not afford steam power. This quiet revolution has all been brought about within the past two decades.

If Mr. Hill shows as much speed in his railroad construction up the Dechutes river since his victory in the legal decision over Mr. Harriman, that he did prior to the decision he will not need his time limit to complete his road.

The eastern farmer upon looking over our market quotations will have to admit that his western brother has decidedly the best of it.

Steers are quoted at $4.50; sheep $4; hogs $8.75; dried apples 9c; eggs 30c; butter 30c; poultry 16 cts per pound. In fact every thing grown on the farm is eagerly sought after at top prices.

During the next two weeks in the Willamette valley hop growers will harvest their crop and whether or not it is remunerative depends entirely whether or not it rains. If Editor Hoffer persists in praying for rain during this interim and as in the past his prayers are answered, he might as well relinquish his ambitions for political preferment, but who said Hoffer was going to pray for rain?

Within the next few weeks many counties in the state of Idaho will vote on local option. The results of this election will be closely watched throughout the country generally, from the fact that in Idaho women have equal rights at the ballot box with men. There is no question but that upon women and children falls by far the heaviest burdens of the evils of intemperance. From a moral standpoint 99 per cent of the women of Idaho should vote for local option, if they do so every county will vote dry, but will they? The liquor interests have always been arrayed against women suffrage, on the supposition that morally women stood higher than men. A comparison of the five states where women do vote do not offer many striking examples as reflected by the laws they help make in substantiation of this theory.

CONSERVATIONISTS AT SEATTLE.

Pinchot announced that he would advise against any action other than the deliberation consideration of the purposes of the organization.

H. W. Carroll, chairman of the executive board of Washington conservation association was the presiding officer.

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Governor Hay, Mayor Miller and President Chilberg of the exposition. E. H. Libby, president of the Conservation association of the state responded.

CLAIMS SHE IS MRS. WRIGHT.
Believing myself a widow, I married J. R. Carson, a childhood chum. He looked after the child until we separated. I feel kindly toward the Wrights, and I hope he will at least look after our boy."

The above was received in our regular telegraph report yesterday and was set in type, but just prior to going to press we received instructions to "kill it" which in newspaper parlance means not to use it.

We note, however, that several papers did use it, consequently there may be some doubt as to accuracy of it.

Story Unfounded.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 26.—"The story from Portland, Oregon, that my brother, Orville, was married to Mrs. G. A. Carson, of that place is untrue from the beginning to the end" is the statement of Orrin Wright, elder brother of the noted aviator. "There is not a word of truth in it as Orville never was married. If Mrs. Carson married a man named Orville Wright he must have belonged to some other family of Wrights."

Escape in Night Clothes.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 26.—Forty guests of the Ellis Hotel at Placerville, Boise Basin, escaped from death in a fire early today which destroyed the building. Patrons fled in their night clothing, leaving all their belongings.

Great Loss in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26.—$13,000,000 will be lost to the farmers of this state because of the heat wave that visited here last week. The average crop is 85 per cent short.

Notice.

There will be a meeting of the Riverside park association tonight at 7:30 at the residence of W. H. Bohnenkamp, for the purpose of considering the proposition of W. F. Chace, landscape architect. All members are requested to be present.

MRS. E. POLACK,
Secretary.
