DELEGATE COMES HOME

STREET SUPERINTENDENT MATOTT LEARNS WALKOLOGY.

Aside From Attending Grand Lodge of Eagles, Studies Sidewalks.

The order of Eagles has been entirely reorganized, along lines aimed at a higher plane than ever, according to J. A. Matott, who is home from Omaha, where he attended the 11th Grand Aerie of the order of Eagles. The convention was instructive and interesting and the delegate from this aerie brings back a big bundle full of helpful matter for his lodge. The new slogan or motto of the lodge, adopted at the Omaha meeting is "If you can't speak a good word for a man, don't speak an ill one."

But fraternal matters were not the only things studied during the trip. Modern methods of constructing cement sidewalks received much attention, and he brings back plans and specifications for the most up-to-date walk in the middle west. He found that a great many walks are being constructed of asphaltum in the east. Another matter which he noticed forceable was the low rate on cement. As far west as Cheyenne the price per barrel for cement is 90 cents, while here the price is more than $3.00. A lower freight rate is necessary to remove this high price.

Supplied with all this modern data on sidewalks, the street superintendent will be able to build new walks along plans and methods that are the very latest and best approved in the big cities.

MYSTERY AT AT CAYUSE

Mystery surrounds the unearthing near Cayuse of the remains of some soldier whose death must have occurred several years ago, according to the Pendleton E. O.

Only the faintest clue to the identity of the man has been discovered and that is a dress cap ornament which shows that the man was at one time a member of Company K, of the Second Louisiana Infantry. Color ornaments were also found but they do not convey any further information.

The skeleton of the man was unearthed at the first road crossing east of Cayuse station. The remains were buried nine feet under the surface of the earth and were discovered by M. J. Moran, who at that time was section foreman at Cayuse, but who has just been transferred to Pendleton. He says the bones found were undoubtedly those of a human and but that most of them crumble to pieces when picked up. The large bones of the arm and leg however, were fairly well preserved.

So far as can be ascertained no one of this description has ever been buried at that point as a result of a natural death and some have advanced the theory that the man was murdered. If such was the case the murderers were evidently in no hurry for they buried their victim good and deep.

It is not believed that the dead man was here in the service of the government but that he was a former member of the Confederate army and that he had come to Oregon after the close of the civil war.

LOCAL BACON SOARS HIGH

What is considered by meat dealers as the first step in an unprecedented shortage in the bacon supply throughout the country was taken today when an advance of one cent was made in the local retail market. Bacon is now selling at from 20 to 25 cents per pound.

Reports received last evening and today from Armour Bros. and other great wholesale houses of the east and middle west are to the effect that the famine is on and that the supply of hogs throughout the country is extremely limited. These stories emanate especially from Omaha and Chicago.

The chief cause for the present shortage in bacon is that the price of wheat was high last season. As a result the hogs were brought to market in a half fatted condition. This caused less than the usual amount of bacon to be put up.

With the present strong prices of wheat and such eminent authorities as J. J. Hill of the Great Northern predicting a general shortage in the world's wheat supply, the outlook for the coming year is for a continued scarcity on the supply of hogs.

CAT FISH SEASON ON.

Big Catches Reported in Small Streams Out in The Valley.

Cat fish season has arrived, and the first big catch reported in the creeks and streams throughout the valley is that of W. Wainwright of South La Grande, who yesterday captured 150 in a few hours. The fish this year average from seven to twelve inches in length, and there seems to be considerable quantities.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

HOME OWNERS HAVE DUTY TO PERFORM FAIR WEEK.

Information Bureau Will be Established in Logan's Office.

Inauguration of a bureau of information during the fair week has been accomplished, and it will be located in the Logan-Sherwood Realty office, Main 86. This office will serve in another capacity aside from that of dishing out answers to questions about the fair both before and during the actual fair days.

Another matter centering about this office is the matter of hospitality among the citizens. It goes without saying that the hotels and rooming houses will be filled to the limit. At any rate, any person having a rooming house accommodation should notify the information office, and then too, all citizens who have rooms to spare should give out the notification. All rooming houses and hotels will be filled first, but private homes will necessarily have to be resorted to. Visitors will be willing to pay for such accommodations to private home owners, and therefore there will be nothing of a philanthropic nature in this piece of preparation for housing a big delegation. These accommodations wherever they exist should be communicated to the office at once, that a long list of available rooms with addresses can be on hand early. La Grande has a name to make for itself in this new era in fairdom, and while the men at the head of it are doing all in their power, it behooves the ordinary inactive person to do a little toward a big accommodation by arranging to give room accommodations at an equitable recompensation.
