HOWARD HEATING STOVES

Howard wood and coal grates will burn either wood or coal

Have wood and coal grates and burn either wood or coal. No one expects to buy strictly high grade goods at the price of "cheap stuff," but some think that a high price guarantees high quality. Don't make this mistake in buying a range. Many ranges of ordinary construction are priced high or even higher than the incomparable Monarch.

WHEN YOU BUY A RANGE—

Find out what it is made of and how built! You have a right to know these things. Any man selling ranges who says, "Our range is a fuel-saver—a perfect baker," and stops there, casts a reflection on your intelligence. If these things are true of any range, there is a reason for it—a reason you can see and understand—a reason you have a right to know before buying.

We can show in a Monarch range exactly why it does what we claim. Come and see how the Malleable iron and steel plates are riveted solidly together, insuring a tight range for unlimited time. Let us explain how tight, permanent seams are possible only in ranges where Malleable iron is used. We can show you how tight, solid construction is necessary to everything you want most in your new range—prompt, sure service—long life—and fuel economy.

CRIMINAL CASE HEARD

NOTED HOBSON CASE IN COURT TODAY.

Hobson Defense Strong and Much Interest Centers in Outcome.

The most serious criminal case of the present term of court is now under way at the court house. Guy Hobson, a young man of Summerville, is confronting a charge of larceny of two cattle. Hobson shows greater nervousness and anxiety than any defendant that has been up for trial this term. He is being defended by Attorney J. D. Slater.

The outline of evidence introduced by District Attorney Ivanhoe is that about June 15, L. Billings of Imbler had two cows in his pasture and that they frequently broke out of the pasture and grazed along the foot of the hill near the public road. The people generally did not know who they belonged to.

On about June 15, Charles Chatten and Guy Hobson were seen driving the cattle into Summerville and were talked to by several people. In each instance they could not tell the name of the man that they declared they had bought them of.

A few days later Billings heard where his cattle had been taken and went to the Chatten shop in Summerville where he found Charles Chatten and he told him that the cows were at the Norvel place. They went there to get them and found Hobson but failed to find the cattle.

After some conversation Billings started home when Chatten and Hobson overtook him and told him they had stolen the cattle and would pay him any price he would drop the matter. Accordingly Billings took $50 per head but would not consent to drop the matter.

The defense is that Chatten was riding for the butcher shop and frequently employed other young men to help him drive the cattle. In the present case he got Hobson to go with him and whether Chatten was deliberately stealing the cows or not Hobson was not an intentional party.

Round Two.

In a savage mill Johnson sends Ketchel down to the mat for a count of five with a terrific right to the jaw. Johnson jabbs Ketchel on the nose twice. Johnson's round.

Third Round.

This round was fast and gave the spectators the worth of their money. It belonged to neither man.

Fourth Round.

Johnson lands on eye. Johnson shows superior strength by picking up Ketchel and doing a half turn. Ketchel's left eye swelling. Ketchel missed with a terrific right for Johnson's jaw. Johnson lands on nose which is slightly bleeding.

Round Five.

Ketchel opened with a left to the body to which the cook replied with two weak lefts to the face. Johnson sent Ketchel's face back with with a hard smash.

Round Seven.

Wins in the 12th Round.

From this time on rounds seven to twelve were nobody's as the honors were about even. The fighting was fast and hard, showing great science by both men. At this time the spectacular play came. Ketchel suddenly rushed the big negro and sent a thundering blow to the right jaw Johnson sparring and receiving the blow on the arm. Johnson fell flat on his back and seemed to be injured. Ketchel rushed for him but the champion was waiting for him. Johnson swung a hard right to the jaw and quick as a flash shot a left to the body. As Ketchel fell backward, Johnson sent in another right to the face and the white man went to the mat as if he had been shot, where he lay prone, with the blood streaming from his mouth. He made a weak effort to rise but fell back again and was counted out.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—The burning sporting questions of today are: "Will Detroit or Pittsburg cop the championship this afternoon?" and "Will the middleweight champion, Stanley Ketchel be able to wrest the heavyweight laurels from Jack Johnson this afternoon at San Francisco." Both fighters are fit for twenty round go beginning at three this afternoon at the Mission Arena. All the choice seats are disposed of and it is anticipated that the great bleachers will also be filled. Ketchel will enter at about 180 pounds and Johnson about 195.

Ketchel Confident.

Ketchel is confident. He said "I never felt better in my life. If I am not hailed the heavyweight champion I will be a very disappointed man. If I can get an opening and land one punch it will be all over with Mr. Linge." Johnson is also confident. He said "There is no doubt but that Ketchel is dangerous, but however I have trained faithfully and am ready for him. Ketchel may stay 12 but he will certainly not stay 15 rounds."

More Bomb Throwing.

Cebre, France, Oct. 16.—A bomb explosion at Barcelona, near Catherreal, injured ten men three of whom will die. The explosion occurred last is evidently intended as an anti-clerical night in the house of the Bishop. It was evidently the act of some anti-clerical fanatic who has become excited over the execution of Professor Ferrer and who was making an attempt to destroy the cathedral.

STRANGE ACT AT EL PASO

decorated streets. And above and on all sides floated the Stars and Stripes and the brilliant banner of Mexico.

The arrival of President Taft's train was the signal for an ovation that found expression in shouts of approval which spread in an increasing volume of sound all over the city. President Diaz was greeted in a manner no less heartily. Bands crashed a noisy salute and the players were able now and then to make themselves heard above the glad acclaim of the populace. Troops saluted their commander in chief, and thousands of children joined in singing the national anthems of the two nations.

After the separate receptions at El Paso and Juarez, President Diaz crossed the bridge to pay the first call upon President Taft. As the two chief executives clasped hands for the first time, the people almost went mad with the excitement of the occasion. It was an historic moment when the aged but soldierly chief magistrate of the Mexican gave his hand into the hearty clasp of the portly representative of Uncle Sam.

It was the first time in the history of the United States and of Mexico that the president of the two republics have exchanged greetings while they were in office. After the formal greetings, President Taft was host to President Diaz and to the federal, state and municipal officers who accompanied him at a banquet in the Chamber of Commerce building.

The president and other distinguished guests visited a gorgeous pageant which passed the reviewing stand at 12 o'clock. Bands and military of the republic were at the head of the parade, and these were followed by civic and fraternal organizations of both El Paso, and Juarez and by thousands of school children from the two cities.

Prominent in the line of parade was the Ohio society of El Paso, with its membership of 300, the members of which wore buckeyes, as did President Taft.

After the parade had passed, President Taft and the presidential party will board the palatial train of President Diaz and will go to Mexico with him.

In Juarez President Taft, his cabinet and others of his party as well as the city officials of El Paso will be the guests at a banquet tendered by President Diaz.

Every precaution has been taken to protect the two presidents. Secret service men, city detectives, soldiers and the police all are co-operating and it is confidentially expected that the day will pass without any untoward incidents marring the great occasion.
